YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 27.—Tragedy abruptly interrupted trial of the "Billion-Dollar Lawsuit" over the merger of Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company with Bethlehem Steel Corporation today, when Leroy A. Manchester, chief of the Sheet & Tube legal staff committed suicide by firing two bullets into his head.

The suicide took place in Manchester's private office in the Stambaugh Building here just a few minutes before he was due to appear in court as an attorney for his concern in the steel suit. Overwork and mental strain which he suffered in the strenuous task of fighting the case were believed to have been the cause for the act.

A time extension of sixty days to comply with the new state regulations, has been granted by the State Department of Labor and Industry as a result of the hearing in Harrisburg, when the industries presented their case, with the aid of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce.

With the official census figures being sent to Washington New Castle proper shows a population increase for the past ten years of nearly 10 per cent, which is about the same proportion as most cities of the nation. The cities showing larger gains are those that have annexed large territory surrounding the city. New Castle, with territory that could logically be annexed to the city is a municipality of approximately 58,000 or 60,000 the census figures show.

Of Exhibitors

If any cattle came over in the Mayflower, their descendants must have been represented at the Third Annual Dairy Field Day held in Volant Thursday, June 26th. About 75 head of pedigreed stock comprised the show some of them winners in previous shows, and many of them seemingly certain winners in this season's shows.

The show is an annual affair and is for the purpose of creating a greater interest in thoroughbred cattle, in interesting the young farm boy and girl in raising such stock, and providing a central gathering place where cattle raisers can exhibit their stock. This was the third such show and in spite of the rain it was the most successful of the shows yet held.

Eats and Music
Lunch was served by the ladies of the Methodist Church, while music was provided by the Pennsylvania Railroad Band. The Simson farm where the show is held, has buildings so located that they lend themselves easily to arrangements, whereby the show grounds are in the center of the plot.

E. B. Fitz of State College had been selected to judge the cattle but was detained and in his place, R. H. Olmstead, also of State College officiated. At noon a judging contest for boys and girls was held, with Mr. Olmstead (Continued On Page Two)

BUENOS AIRES, June 27.—A manifesto issued by the Bolivian Camacho regiment at La Paz today said that the government of Bolivia today was in the hands of a military "council of six" according to dispatches received from Chile.

The manifesto said that the government had been deposed because it was unconstitutional and said that the "council of six" would guide the destinies of the nation until political parties have been reorganized. The council would be prepared to resign after a plebiscite has been held to elect a president to take the post vacated by Hernando Siles, who resigned the presidency several weeks ago.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Elated over their successful flight from Ireland to New York, even though forced to make one stop at Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, Major Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three companions of the Southern Cross rested at their hotel here this morning in preparation for the official greeting which the city of New York was to extend to them this afternoon.

It was to be a comparatively quiet reception, lacking the pomp and hurrah of the Broadway parades that have turned out for Lindbergh, Byrd, Chamberlin and other celebrities. At the request of the fliers—modest men, all of them—the harbor pageant, the triumphal procession up Broadway and other ostentations have been eliminated from the program.

All Is Ready For Hospital Fund Benefit Contest Under Floodlights Here This Evening

There is no possibility of a "bribery" charge emanating from the Weather Bureau office, the little old weather vane simply cannot be "fixed." The committee handling this big Jameson Memorial hospital benefit mushball game and features here tonight at Taggart Field, talked themselves silly yesterday afternoon in an interview with the Weather prognosticator, but it was just a waste of effort.

Tonight is the night of all nights as far as New Castle mushball is concerned. The mushball boys are going to stage a moonlight party at Taggart Field. The floodlights that illuminate the football field will be dusted off and put to use this evening just as soon as the sun goes down if it ever comes up today.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The administration faced a political crisis in the senate today while seeking approval of a limited world war pension act, following the President's veto of the liberal bill preferred by congress.

Administration leaders, fearful of the effect of the veto on republican success in November were determined to hold congress in session until a new pension law is enacted, giving relief to world war veterans. This may take another week, but the leaders were ready to hold house and senate until the problem is settled, abandoning the plan for adjourning on Saturday.

House Sustains Veto
President Hoover has won his fight so far, the house having sustained his veto of the liberal bill by 182 to 188. The house promptly enacted the administration's own bill 361 to 4. The bill faces a different situation in the (Continued On Page Two)

CHICAGO, June 27.—Here is something Chicago ought to put on billboards and announce to the world:

"No innocent man has been murdered here since the World Fair in '33," and also, rival gangs do not murder each other, they are killed by members of their own gang for "holding out" and double crossing.

A "square" gangster can die in this town of old age, and an innocent citizen to be shot here would have to commit suicide.

I tell you this system has a lot of merit to it. Wouldn't it be great if bankers "bumped off" the crooked ones?

(International News Service)

TORONTO, June 27.—Four persons were killed and twenty-one injured when a tourist car attached to Train No. 4 of the Canadian National Railways plunged into the Vermillion River near Sudbury, according to the first word received here today from the scene of the accident.

It is understood the entire train was derailed, last night. The train was enroute to Toronto.

Details were lacking because wires were downed by an electrical storm.

Relief Train Sent
A relief train carrying doctors and nurses was dispatched to the scene immediately and the train returned to Capreol with a number of injured passengers. Wrecking crews began the work of lifting the sunken passenger coach and placing the other derailed coaches back on the track. Effort is being made to recover the bodies of those killed.

An early investigation failed to reveal the cause of the derailment which hurled the entire train from the track with the exception of the engine. The first news of the wreck was carried to Capreol by the engineer who sped there in the locomotive. The train was en route to Toronto.

His death was due to cirrhosis of the liver.

Congressman Porter was stricken ill two months ago on shipboard while returning from London. He had been a patient at the hospital since June 11 and, previous to that time, was confined in Walter Reed hospital at Washington.

Congressman Porter had been in a coma for some time previous to his death and hope for his recovery gave way early this morning when physicians at the hospital reported their patient was "steadily sinking."

A cablegram was received at the hospital from Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese ambassador to London, expressing regret at the congressman's serious illness, shortly before Congressman Porter died.

$1400 Is Asked As Commission On Realty Deal

Forrest M. Weston Files Suit
In Local Court Against
E. C. Johnson

SALE WAS MADE OVER HIS HEAD

Forrest M. Weston, a real estate agent of Wilkesburg, has filed a suit at the prothonotary's office here against E. C. Johnson, in which he claims $1400 due as a commission on property sold by defendants to E. J. McClernon.

Weston alleges that E. C. Johnson and wife, who have moved to New Castle formerly lived at Manor, Pa., and that they owned 15 acres in Westmoreland County, Pa., which they orally gave him to sell. Later an exclusive sale contract for 90 days was given to him. He told defendants that if he secured a purchaser the commission would be ten per cent, owing to the location of the property which required considerable traveling to show prospective customers.

At first defendants thought they ought to get $18,500 for the property, but plaintiff says that he told them that he would probably not be able to get more than $14,000 or $15,000. It was agreed, he says, that he was to go ahead and try to get the best price obtainable.

Plaintiff says that he showed the property to a number of persons, among them E. J. McClernon, who became interested but wanted to exchange some real estate he had for it. The negotiations with McClernon lasted for some time, or until the 90 day exclusive contract ran out. Weston says that even after it expired he kept after McClernon, but finally learned that Johnson had sold the property to him for $14,000. Weston alleges that Johnson's got McClernon to hold off purchasing until after his exclusive contract ran out, but that as he was the agent who had originally shown the property to McClernon, he is entitled to the $1400 commission.

senate, which once rejected the administration bill without roll call or record vote.

The battle to enact the President's bill will start in the finance committee this morning. Republican and democratic finance leaders will confer with representatives of the American Legion, other soldiers organizations and spokesmen for the president. If they agree on the administration's bill, it will be given a tremendous boost toward enactment.

If they disagree, as they have in the past, the outcome will be in doubt.

The administration bill would initiate a new pension system for world war veterans, but on a lower scale than the pensions paid to soldiers of other wars. It would cost $50,000,000 annually for three years. All the compensation features existing law would be retained, but veterans disabled by their own misconduct or by accident not traceable to war service would be eligible only for pensions, ranging from $12 to $40 a month.

You're the JUDGE

A friendly game of cards, in the back room of a public house, grew less friendly as the game went on. Soon the game was anything but friendly, and presently one of the players, Jenks, accused the other, Dump, of cheating.

This angered Dump so that he arose, drew a knife and inflicted a fatal stab in the region of Jenks' heart.

Jenks was taken to a hospital in great pain.

The doctor there, to quiet Jenks, decided to give him a dose of opiate, but gave too much and Jenks died.

Dump was apprehended and put on trial for manslaughter. His attorney argued that it was the opiate and not the stab wound that caused the death, even though the stab wound would eventually have proved fatal.

How would you decide this case? Make up your mind before you read the decision.

TWO CONSTABLES ARE VICTIMS OF BRUTAL ATTACK

According to Constable Robinson, he would be best able to give, because of the fact that Rees was closest to the automobile which they had under surveillance when the double assault occurred, and both officers were knocked out.

At the hospital it was stated that the injury to Rees is across the top of the head and X-ray pictures taken show a bad fracture of the skull. An operation is being performed to trephine the skull and relieve the pressure on the brain in the hope of saving the life of Rees.

Constables Rees and Robinson were at the court of Justice of the Peace A. H. Gilmore of Newhampton town, ship last night where the former prosecuted several cases against some young men charged with disorderly conduct.

To Patrol Roads.
About 11 o'clock the cases were completed and Constables Rees and Robinson started as they left the place that they planned to go and patrol the roads of the district for a time.

According to the story told by Constable Robinson, he and Rees went in their machine to the cross road which turned to the right at the Shenango U. P. church on the Wilmington road and goes east toward Coaltown.

They turned in and after proceeding a distance turned into a lane to the left. They saw a machine, which Robinson says looked like a sedan, some distance ahead, parked under rather suspicious circumstances, at least sufficient to cause them to investigate. Robinson stayed crouched in some undergrowth some little distance from this machine, while Rees circled around to get in the rear of the other machine.

Robinson, according to his statements this morning, was in this position and saw Rees at the rear of the other car, then everything went blank. Just what happened to him he does not know, except that when he came to he was probably 100 yards from the point where he had been previously and was suffering from injuries of the head and arm.

He went to some house in the immediate district and asked assistance. He asked what time it was and the man of the house informed him that it was 1 o'clock.

Find Rees in Ditch.
He and the man returned to the scene and found Rees lying in a ditch, unconscious and apparently badly injured. By flashlight they determined that the car that Rees and Robinson had been spotting had apparently had some trouble in starting to get away. There was deep furrows in the ground such as would be made by tires of an automobile as a hurried attempt was made to get away. On a nearby tree was found some human hair.

Rees was placed in the constables' machine and removed to the Jameson Memorial hospital where Robinson was admitted and had his injuries, cuts on the forehead and right hand, which required several stitches, fixed up. He was able to leave the hospital this morning.

Robinson, according to statements made this morning, has absolutely no knowledge of how he or Rees were injured. He believes that should Rees recover he will know who was the assailant of himself and can explain the mystery. To all appearances Rees was struck across the head with some heavy object.

STAR LORE RADIATION FORCE IN A STAR

By Arthur Dev. Carpenter
Professor Eddington, the distinguished physicist in 1916 computed the forces operating in a star according to a given model structure, and the known laws controlling gases. One interesting fact growing from the investigation was, that the radiation pressure inside a star becomes very great at high temperatures, and carries a large part of the load of overlying gaseous matter. The law controlling this internal stellar radiation is that it increases as the fourth power of the temperature which means that when a given temperature is regarded as unity, if that temperature is doubled the radiation pressure becomes 2x2x2x2 or 16 times as great.

leaving the city shocked and stunned. The tragedy was announced in the courtroom—the battlefield of the bitterly-fought steel suit—by Judge David G. Jenkins, who immediately adjourned the court until next Monday.

The announcement brought a gasp from the crowd of spectators, attorneys and principals in the suit. Several minutes of rigid silence followed. James A. Campbell, veteran white-haired chief of Sheet & Tube Company, was overcome by the tragic news. He sat sobbing in the courtroom.

Manchester, who was 47, killed himself by firing two shots into his head. He died almost instantly. The prostrate body of the attorney was found in his offices by associates, who heard the bullet shots from an adjoining room.

Close friends of Manchester declared that they had noticed the attorney acting strangely for the past month. He had aged considerably since the bitter contest over the merger of Sheet and Tube with Bethlehem developed, they said, and he appeared depressed and overworked.

The heavier burden of the legal negotiations for both the merger transactions and the resulting battle over its consummation had fallen upon Manchester's shoulders. He had planned to retire to private practice at the conclusion of the merger trial.

Another factor, believed to have caused a strain upon the attorney, was the fact that during the famous proxy battle over the merger last spring, two of Manchester's three daughters became seriously stricken with scarlet fever.

ATLANTIC FLIERS

of honor from Mayor James J. Walker.

Undoubtedly, however, there will be thousands of people on the streets as they motor to City Hall, and they are certain to come in for more ovation, such as they received when they landed at Roosevelt field at 7:30 o'clock last night. After the City Hall ceremonies they all will be the guests of the Advertising Club at a luncheon.

Wild Reception
Major Kingsford-Smith and his companions will long remember the wild reception they received at the hands of the 10,000 spectators who assembled at Roosevelt field and welcomed them last evening. The crowd broke through the police lines and almost mobbed the trans-Atlantic fliers.

In the excitement, the reception committee, headed by rover A. Whalen, and including Sir Ronald Lindsey, the British ambassador, was swept aside and almost trampled down. It was one of the most unruly crowds that ever witnessed a landing of a famous ship at Roosevelt field.

The crowd was so unmanageable that Kingsford-Smith and his crew did not dare leave their ship for two minutes after it landed.

When they did leave their plane they were almost trampled down by the cordial, albeit decidedly disorderly mob. It took the police almost half an hour to get them away from the hand of the crowd. And when this was accomplished Kingsford-Smith was able to tell newspapermen his reactions to his hop from Ireland across the Atlantic.

Is Disappointed
"It was a tough job, and one which we got out of luckily," he said ruefully. "I'm disappointed naturally, that we didn't make New York without a stop, but I believe if we were to it again we would make a better job out of it. We learned a few things."

Major Kingsford-Smith attributed the success of the east-to-west flight over the North Atlantic to "careful preparations."

"My next flight will be to get married," said Kingsford-Smith in response to another question. He declared that in two or three days he expected to head westward for Oakland, Calif., in the Southern Cross to complete the ship's tour of the world. Then he is going to Melbourne, Australia, where he will be married to Miss Mary Powell in September. He will make the trip from the Pacific coast to Australia by boat.

Will Go To Capital
The radio operator, Stannage, said he would not have missed the "thrill" of the trans-Atlantic flight "for anything in the world."

"But," he added, with a smile, "next time someone else can make it. I don't care to do it across the Atlantic again."

Kingsford-Smith attributed the fact that the lives of all four fliers were saved to the successful handling of the radio by Stannage.

Van Dyk, the co-pilot, said the flight was "great" but next time he will be "willing to cross the Atlantic by boat."

Captain Saul had little to say. He was tired and happy—like the others. He did say, however, that he would like to try it again.

The four fliers will go to Washington, D. C., tomorrow for a reception at the capital and then will return to New York. The Southern Cross will then be ready for the take-off for California.

"COUNCIL OF SIX" RULE IN BOLIVIA

were being conducted to the Argentine border where they were expected to entrain for Buenos Aires, additional dispatches from Chile declared.

The dispatches had been swelled by the support of the entire Bolivian army with the exception of two regiments which remained loyal.

Official dispatches, heavily censored, gave little information about the revolutionary movement which other dispatches declared had spread thru Bolivia.

A Bolivian radio message intercepted by an Argentine station yesterday said that 80 had been killed in a battle between troops and revolutionists 45 miles outside La Paz.

Official dispatches contained an admission that one regiment of the army had joined the subversive movement, taking possession of Oruro, capital of the department of Oruro, about 130 miles southeast of La Paz.

Travelers arriving here from La Paz said that the Bolivian capital was under martial law when they left there Tuesday with troops patrolling the streets and machine guns commanding the principal thoroughfares.

THIRTY-TWO IS DEATH TOLL IN SHIP EXPLOSION

the drill boat, "John B. King" was blown to bits in one gigantic explosion.

Forty-three men were aboard the ill-fated craft when the lightning struck the drills, ran down the steel braces and set off tons of dynamite in the shoals directly under the boat.

Bodies were tossed up into the air like small chips of wood. They were broken and mangled. Many never will be found. Eleven of the crew were rescued from the wind-churned waters of the Narrows, which was dotted with bits of wreckage.

Eleven Are Rescued.
The death toll probably would have been greater if the United States Coast Guard Cutter, C. G. 211, with Commander R. M. Rasmussen, of the Lower Great Lakes district aboard, had not been hovering near. The boat dove to and picked up the 11 survivors, who were clinging to planks and other buoyant pieces of debris.

Other coast guard cruisers and river boats slowly plied back and forth across the scene today in a search for bodies while the Canadian government launched its official investigation.

Without Warnings.
R. A. McNeill, of Brockville, day foreman aboard the drilling ship, declared there was no warning given. The lightning had struck with its proverbial quickness.

"The bottom of the boat seemed to go from under me," said McNeill. "I found myself in the water clinging to some plank."

Two women, Mrs. G. A. Clarke, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Mrs. W. C. Walcott, of Brockville, who were seated in the porch of their summer cottage near the scene, are believed to be the only eye witnesses.

They said that there was a deafening explosion and then a black cloud of smoke. When the smoke was cleared away by the wind of the summer thunder shower, the John B. King was gone.

Some of the crew were reported to have been sleeping in their bunks when the tragedy occurred. They either were blown to bits or drowned.

A dog, King, who had been awarded a medal by the Humane Society of the United States for saving the life of Jack Wylie, a member of the crew, was also counted among those lost. Wylie also is believed to have been killed in the blast.

Two Great Corpses.
More Land For Us.
Europe Irritated?

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1930, King Features

Important news is the arrival of the courageous air travelers from Ireland. For the second time have succeeded in flying the Atlantic, coming westward.

Soon, of course, regular flights at stated hours will be provided for passengers.

And only a little while ago the idea of any flying was ridiculed. Men progress quickly, once they start.

King George and Queen Mary joined with others Wednesday in celebrating the end of 17 years' work that has restored St. Paul's Cathedral in London to a safe condition.

The fine old building is worth saving. And in its vaults under heavy stone monuments lie what is left of two bodies more important to the modern British Empire than any other two. They are Wellington and Nelson, not far apart, resting in solemn half-darkness.

The story is still current that Nelson was buried hurriedly because it was necessary. When shot down on his flagship he was put into a cask of rum, at sea, to preserve his corpse from decay, as was customary with important dead sailors, and other sailors are said to have drunk the rum through a hole in the barrel, leaving the admiral without protection, or preservation. The story is not proved.

The United States considers claiming ownership of the areas over which Rear Admiral Byrd flew recently in the Antarctic. We may follow the example of Great Britain and other nations, saying "That land is ours, for we saw it first." It would add 150,000 square miles to our possessions.

The land and open sea in those regions are valuable already, the water for whale fishing and other live crops, the land for its mineral possibilities.

In years to come, with the shifting of the poles, those lands will be warm and fertile. But that will be thousands of years hence. By that time the earth's governments may think only of making land useful to all human beings not about grabbing and owning.

Mr. Adolph S. Ochs, back from Europe, fears "We do not appreciate the seriousness of the feeling of irritation against the United States throughout all Europe."

Well informed Americans know that Europeans hate this country, first, because they owe us money. The borrower never loves the lender. Then, there is plain jealousy. Those nations thought we ought to make their quarrels our quarrels, and agree forever, to send our men and money to take part in their fights.

But Europe's "feeling of irritation" need not worry us.

Give the United States enough airplanes, submarines and swift cruisers, and you will find Europe's "feeling of irritation" completely offset by a more important feeling of respect. You don't need their love, if they fear you.

The House has passed the bill to pay the war veterans about $102,000,000 a year additional. The President will veto the bill when it reaches him. The House is expected not to override his veto.

The President, explaining his opposition to the bill, says it amounts to $70,000,000 a year more than the Legion itself demanded, and that the greater part of the money would be paid to men not incapacitated in the war, but incapacitated since the war.

This bill may play an important part in the next national election.

Henry Ford will build at least six more big motorships, of 6,000 dead-weight tons each, to carry his products across the oceans and to South America.

Gradually Mr. Ford is building up a private fleet as big, in proportion to our times, as that of Jacques Couer, who helped the French king out of a bad hole, and, as a reward, was falsely accused of murdering Agnes Sorel.

Mr. Ford will get a better reward, let us hope.

While Mr. Ford is building ships, perhaps he will use his mechanical genius experimenting with faster ships. His new motorships will make 16 knots an hour.

Some day, somebody will build ships to make one hundred knots an hour. And that somebody might as well be Henry Ford.

Among "sad words of tongue or pen" the news includes Mr. Hoover's order that he sent all the wine glasses in the White House to be stored in a government warehouse.

Thin, delicately colored green and red glasses for Rhine wine, wide, generous champagne glasses, little glasses for brandy all are sent away.

On White House sideboards and pantry shelves, the great American ice water glass will reign supreme.

However, nothing lasts forever. The fact that one administration is dry does not mean that others shall eternally lack "cakes and ale." Other Presidents, other ideas, and other glasses. Mohammed forbade wine. Kemal approves it.

New Louisiana Press Tax Bill
Seen As Consumer's Burden

Governor Of State Reported Source Of Request For Legislation Which Is Described As Both Detrimental To Business And An Attack On Journalistic Freedom

Attack on freedom of the press is charged in the introduction into the Louisiana Legislature of a measure which would place a heavy tax on newspaper advertising and confer the right of public officials to take other action in connection with the newspapers. Governor Huey P. Long, who has some controversies with the press of the State, is declared to have requested the legislation. General opinion is that the tax of 15 per cent on gross receipts for advertising is oppressive; that by selecting one business, the measure would be unconstitutional as class legislation; and that the tax would be passed on to the consumer, thus injuring the business of Louisiana communities.

"The bill would impose a special tax upon merchants and other business men," says the ALTOONA MIRROR, "for all advertising published from year to year. As the merchants are undoubtedly taxed in various ways upon the annual business they transact, such legislation would seem to be both superfluous and oppressive." The CHARLOTTE NEWS holds that "such a tax would be passed along necessarily to the purchasers of newspaper space and, therefore, it would fall heavily upon the purchasers of the commodities advertised." The DETROIT NEWS adds that "customers could avoid the tax in but one way—by buying outside the State"; that "the bill, if successful, would be an invitation to citizens of Louisiana to buy goods in adjoining States, where prices would naturally be lower."

"If the bill is enacted," according to the OAKLAND TRIBUNE, "it will fall short of its own weight for the penalties will be many. The Louisiana bill will be of the national map, so far as advertising goes; its papers will be made smaller and the business man or manufacturer who would call attention to his wares will have to pay, not on the basis of circulation but 15 per cent in addition." The KANSAS CITY STAR comments: "It is hardly necessary to say that modern business is built on advertising. Without advertising, business would stagnate, there could be no mass production, prices would shoot upward, and the whole system of modern industry and trade would be dislocated. It is inconceivable that Louisiana would desire to penalize itself by discouraging the use of this essential instrument of progress."

"When city taxes amount to two per cent of the value of one's property," remarks the LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL, "the property owner feels outraged. Nothing like this 15 per cent license tax has ever been heard of in modern times. It is not to be expected that the Legislature will enact this flagrant piece of legislation. The courts would knock it out as quickly as a bad penny." The HARTFORD COURANT asks: "If Louisiana can take away 15 per cent of the gross advertising receipts of its daily newspapers, what it to prevent other State governments, smarting under the editorial lash, from doing likewise?"

"The bill is designed to punish the press for its impertinence by taxing it to death or slavery," asserts the ST. LOUIS GLOBE-DEMOCRAT, adding: "It is obvious that this measure would place the daily newspapers of Louisiana, or those that could survive such a tax, under the control of the officials of the State and local governments. It is a special tax levied only upon daily newspapers, and is plainly intended to cause their destruction or their subjection to political authority. There could be no freedom of the press under such a law. That the Louisiana Legislature will give serious consideration to such a vicious proposal is hardly conceivable." The BUFFALO EVENING NEWS advises: "If the citizens of Louisiana have any regard for a free press, they will demand the defeat of the iniquitous measure." The YOUNGSTOWN VINDICATOR contends that "there is nothing to be gained by 'cutting off the nose to spite the face,'" and the BANGOR COMMERCIAL is skeptical as to legislative action.

"Governor Long once almost succeeded in driving oil companies out of business in that State," recalls the NEW YORK SUN, "by means of a proposed occupational tax, relatively much less severe than the tax now proposed for newspapers. One session of the Legislature refused to do his bidding and adjourned; immediately he convoked another. It was not until about a year ago that he finally made a pledge not to push the project." The SUN continues: "Once a State admits the principle that a public official or any set of public officials may impose punitive taxation upon the press because of criticism or opposition, that State has delivered itself over to the mercy of any oppression who may manage to win an election."

The SCRANTON TIMES calls the bill "unconstitutional, assuming that the Louisiana Constitution forbids class legislation." Objection to the measure on the ground that it applies to only one business is voiced by the UTICA OBSERVER-DISPATCH, "the ALBANY EVENING NEWS and the NEW BEDFORD STANDARD." The Albany paper also points out: "Newspapers, through their publicity on public affairs, serve as a forceful check against misgovernment. They are in a sense public institutions, servants of the people." The Utica paper, in condemning the proposed action, suggests that, instead of levying on gross earnings, "15 per cent of their net ought not to be so bad."

"An insult to the press of the entire country" is seen by the ROCK ISLAND ARGUS, while the SYRACUSE HERALD condemns a "foul blow at the integrity and vitality of the press in an American commonwealth," and the CHARLESTON DAILY MAIL argues: "The progress of the country and the preservation of the rights and liberties of the people have been based on a free and untrammelled press." The BIRMINGHAM NEWS offers the judgment: "It is a deliberate attack on the every life of the daily press, if this amazing bill should become a law and stand the test of the courts." The OKLAHOMA CITY OKLAHOMAN views it as "an inexcusable assault upon one of the most vital forces of human society," as well as "confiscatory in character to an outrageous degree." The ATLANTA CONSTITUTION brands it as "an unprecedented assault upon the people's press."

"Governor Long is treading on dangerous ground," in the opinion of the LITTLE ROCK ARKANSAS DEMOCRAT, "when he tries to silence the press with a tax budgeon. Wiser men have tried it, and among them all, not one remains whose name can be found written high upon the roll of leaders enjoying public respect."

"A new daily publication," recalls the NEW YORK EVENING POST, "would actually have to pay a tax on business it had not obtained. The bill reads: 'and as to new businesses, the license shall be computed on the basis of an estimate of the amount of business for the current year.' This must be the first time in history that a tax has been levied on prospects. But the details of this precious piece of legislation are of secondary interest. The main thing about it is that, instead of being designed to benefit the public, it is intended to punish that part of the public which is most active in exercising the most important function of democratic government—discussion of public men and public measures."

"NOT A CHICAGO AFFAIR
In older days a man wore a shirt of mail to keep him safe from an enemy's dagger, perhaps, something of the same idea actuated a Houston man to wear an 'iron derby'.

Anyway, a Harris County, Texas jury has placed its stamp of approval on the derby or "iron lid" in fact, their verdict established a precedent upholding a man in wearing any sort of clothing he so desires, and in so doing is entitled to the protection of the court.

Several months ago a man wearing the "iron derby" had it knocked from his head by another who did not favor that style of hat. A fight resulted the man that was beneath the derby prior to the starting of the affair pulled a gun that according to his testimony at the trial he attempted to hit his opponent over the head with it.

However, the gun was accidentally discharged and the man who did not approve of the derby was badly hurt. "No guilty" was the verdict of the jury, and the defendant went his way to buy another derby, with full confidence in the law of the land.

(International News Service) HOLLYWOOD, June 27.—Although the name of DeMille usually is important in motion picture circles, still it isn't going to mean a thing on the list of extra girls who every day seek employment in the movies—this in spite of the fact that Katharine DeMille, 19 year old daughter of Cecil B. DeMille, motion picture director is among them.

Seeking a real trial in pictures without the aid of her father, Miss DeMille was enrolled as an extra and asks a chance to show what she can do on her own merits.

Director's Daughter Becomes Film Extra

(International News Service) HOLLYWOOD, June 27.—Although the name of DeMille usually is important in motion picture circles, still it isn't going to mean a thing on the list of extra girls who every day seek employment in the movies—this in spite of the fact that Katharine DeMille, 19 year old daughter of Cecil B. DeMille, motion picture director is among them.

Seeking a real trial in pictures without the aid of her father, Miss DeMille was enrolled as an extra and asks a chance to show what she can do on her own merits.

Says Corsica Has Very Few Crimes

(International News Service)

PARIS, June 27.—In spite of its reputation for bandits, the little island of Corsica can count fewer crimes proportionally, than any other country, says Jules Veran, writing in "Comedie." The trouble is, that whenever any highway robbery or murder does occur in the peaceful little land, everybody makes such a big matter of it.

The last bandit, of course, did not die with Romanetti. Only this week two of them made a daring attack upon the post-automobile running between Ajaccio-Lopigna with the driver and two gendarmes among the dead.

"But such a thing is by no means an everyday occurrence," concludes Veran, "and it is most unfortunate that more tourists do not become acquainted with this 'little French bijou'."

Portrays Real Life Part On Stage

(International News Service)

BERLIN, June 27.—A man who was sentenced to death will portray on the stage the same role he played in real life.

This man is Hans Beckers, one of three sailors of the German navy who in the fall of 1918 were found guilty of revolutionary activity and were sentenced to be shot. His two companions did face the firing squad, Beckers escaped.

The drama in which he will appear is entitled "The Kaisers 'Kuli'" an adaptation of a book of the same name by Theodore Plivier, which is being produced by Erwin Piscator, noted German producer of radical plays.

Two London doctors recently dashed 1,100 miles by plane and automobile to Malaga, in South Spain, in an attempt to save the life of Mrs. Violet Marcus, an Englishwoman who had been taken ill while visiting there.

The Parent Problem

by GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Allow Child To Make Up His Prayers

A prayer which a little child makes up from day to day is the best. It has meaning. It is interesting. He created it. But if you, his parent, are timid about making up prayers of your own to pray before or after he prays, he may be shy about improving prayers also. In that event it is well to give him a model.

Your prayers in the presence of the child, and the prayers you teach him to say, ought to avoid suggestions of sorrow, danger, fear, or death. Penitence in prayer may be very good for a bone-headed, cold, hard-hearted grown-up, but expressions of regret and sorrow, or of anxiety or fear by the little child as he prays is certainly unwholesome. We want him to go to bed at night with bright hopes and good wishes, and to fall asleep feeling comfortable, amid visions of a happy day ahead. And be brief.

The "Now I lay me down to sleep" is not very good, therefore, because of the fear suggestion. One mother writes, for instance: "I remember when as a child I said that prayer, I always added: 'And dear God, don't let me die before morning.'"

From Covington, Ky., came this prayer from Mrs. Wulskine Cochran: "Dear God, before I shut my eyes to light."

I want to say to you good-night; And thank you for this happy day, So full of laughter, joy and play. For father, and my mother dear, I thank you most; I know you'll hear This little prayer, and especially would

I like to have you make me good. I don't that beautiful!"

If we could get all the children of the world to pray the following prayer, which Mrs. R. W. Hooper of Continental, O., sent us, I believe we should have no more dread of future wars:

"Oh Lord, Thou hast given me so much joy and happiness today. I am wishing joy and happiness to other children in lands far away; Whenever they lie down to sleep, tired and happy with play, Yellow or brown, or black or white, Oh Father, bless them all tonight."

My youngest child learned the next one in the kindergarten.

"Father, we thank Thee for the night

And for the pleasant morning light; For rest and food and loving care, And all that makes the day so fair. Help us do the things we should To be to others kind and good; In all we do in work or play To grow more loving every day."

No reason why mothers should do all the praying with their little children, or for them. Dads should be parents, too. About the most beautiful scene I can think of is that of dad and mother kneeling down beside the toddler's bed with him between them.

Prayer In Congress

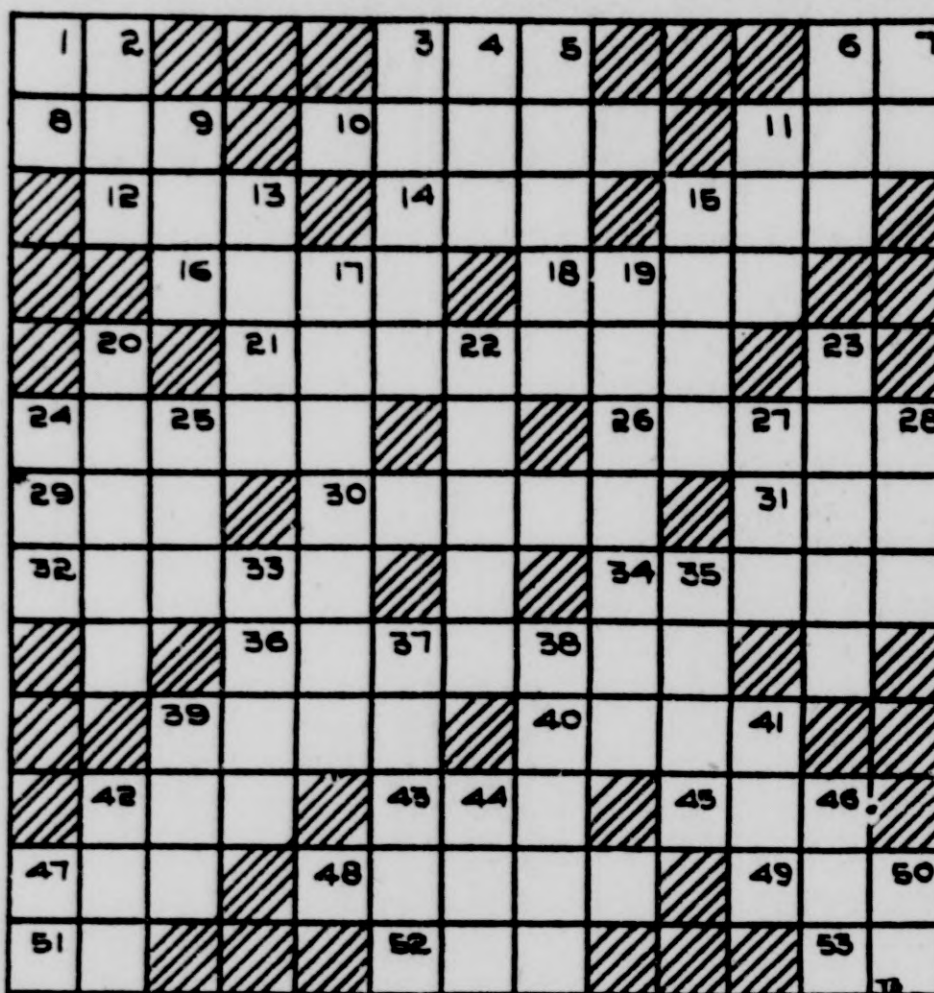

The house met at 12 o'clock noon and was called to order by the speaker.

The chaplain, Rev. James Shera Montgomery, D. D., offered the following prayer:

Our merciful Heavenly Father, we thank Thee that Thou art sufficient to the needs of each day. Do Thou hush the voices of evil desire, motive, and passion, and make the image within us clear and strong to meet the conditions of life. Add divine meaning to each day and guard every soul, keep our hearts pure and our lips from speaking guile. In the Christian's faith may we rejoice in life, and by fidelity and watchfulness be prepared for every divinely offered opportunity. Help us to go on our way, and by honest work and faithful service find that life is good by doing something to make it good. Again we thank Thee for life that throbs and flushes and flashes in the color and beauty and fragrance of a June day. Amen.

Shoes made of frog skins, says the Omaha World-Herald, ought at least to squeak. And of course those made of alligator skin should cackle like the alligator.

Peter's Adventures

by FLORENCE VINCENT

BLOWN OFF THE PERCH

Peter scarcely needed to be told to keep his eyes open. He wouldn't have closed them for the world. And now he noticed something poking out of Pupa Mosquito's helmet.

"Looks like the top of his head!" murmured he. Brown Beetle nodded. "And unless I am much mistaken, there comes a pair of wings," cried Peter growing excited. "And Beetle, if those aren't legs, then I never saw any."

"Right!" shrilled Brown Beetle. "You'd never guess a Mosquito could curl up its legs to fit into a case, now could you?" Before the boy could answer, Brown Beetle had called a warning to the young Mosquito.

"Hey, there youngster, look out for the wind!" shrilled he at the very second the young Gray Gnat at last forced its way out of the covering and mounted it, swaying dizzily. "Be careful or the breeze will blow you off your perch into water, and you can't swim now, you know. You have become a creature of the air and are no longer a dweller in the pool."

Alas and alack, Brown Beetle's warning came too late. The breeze struck the empty pupa case and over it toppled upside down. Mosquito made a frantic effort to take to brand new wings, but he hadn't had a chance to try them and he couldn't manage to set sail at all. Down into the water from which he had just come, dropped the poor little creature, but now he couldn't swim. Peter was sure he tried but he had forgotten how. Unlucky little Mosquito doomed never to dance in the sunlight or buzz around a human's ear.

"HEY THERE, YOUNGSTER, LOOK OUT FOR THE WIND!" SHRILLED HE.

"Hey, there, the Gobein will get you if you don't watch out!" shrieked Peter.

Next: "Gobein Gets Mosquito."

THE OLD WOODEN CLUB
Time was and that was long ago when golf I first began. I had a driver that I loved, like every golfer's man. Its shaft was made of hickory, with just the proper whip. The head was small and trimly turned and slender was the grip. And though I had to struggle then to score in ninety-nine. Full many a splendid drive I got with that old club of mine.

I carried it year after year, I scarred its shiny head. A splinter in the shaft I healed with glue and winding thread. And golfers came and golfers went, but still that club I played. And still my drives were straight and far, with just a little fade. Though others purchased wooden sets of every new design. I seemed to do about as well with that old club of mine.

With favoring fortune I began as golfers always do. To put aside the trusty old to venture with the new. An ivory inset club I tried, a bulger followed soon. Then clubs by numbers registered, proclaimed a golfer's boon. Then shafts of steel were introduced. To buy I fell in line. And to a caddy boy I gave that good old club of mine.

Today that caddy boy came in, his face a joy to see. The course I shoot in ninety-two he'd shot in seventy-three. With pride he talked about his drives, all straight and long and true. Which if you score in seventy-three is what you have to do. But what a shock to vanity and out-fits superfine! That youngster made those splendid drives with that old club of mine! 38,000 HIGH SCHOOL
PUPILS GET DIPLOMAS

Changes In Industrial And Economic World Held Responsible

HARRISBURG, June 27 — Reports received by the Department of public instruction indicate that the 1930 graduating class from the 815 Pennsylvania public four-year and senior high schools, numbering approximately 38,000, is the largest class to complete the twelve-year course in the history of the State. Adding to this number the 5000 who graduated in February 1930, and the 5000 graduated from private secondary schools, makes a total of 48,000 for the school year 1929-1930.

Department officials point out that in recent years the rapid increase in school enrollment has occurred in the secondary school, comprising grades 7 to 12. A still further increase is indicated by the fact that the enrollment in grades 9 to 12 of the secondary high schools comprises only about forty per cent of the individuals reported by the census in the age group, fourteen to seventeen years. The secondary schools of Pennsylvania are rapidly being reorganized on the junior-senior high school basis incorporating the junior high school as an integral part of the state school system.

Explain Causes

The increase in high school enrollment and the number remaining to complete the secondary school course is due to several causes, officials believe. Changes in the industrial and economic world have made it necessary for those who aspire to better positions to secure more complete preparations than has previously been demanded for entrance into schools giving advanced training or into the various vocations. With the coming of the machine age, the number of available positions has been reduced, thus making it unnecessary for the employment of those in the younger age group. Likewise hazardous positions have been closed to those below the eighteen year old level. An increase in the number of skilled and semi-skilled positions requiring technical training, such as can be given in the commercial course and vocational shop courses in the high school, have attracted many who previously left school at an early age. Another reason is the demand made by an increasing number of boys and girls for the cultural education represented by courses offered in both the secondary school and college level, officials said.

Ratio Increases

In 1900 approximately four persons in each thousand of population were enrolled in grades 9 to 12 of the secondary schools. During the year now closing approximately forty out of each thousand of population were enrolled in these grades. The secondary school is also assuming a larger role in training for civic competency, in developing the proper attitudes, and in giving the basic training and information necessary for worthy home membership. It was pointed out. Training and homemaking for girls is recognized as a fundamental obligation by the proper schools. Parents see the value of such training and are prompted to make sacrifices that pupils may remain to complete the full secondary school course.

The attractiveness of the secondary school program is a fourth cause for an increased number remaining to complete the full twelve-year program. An effort is being made throughout the Commonwealth to adapt courses of study to meet the needs of the individual pupils. The addition of such courses as health and physical education, music, art, commercial education, homemaking and shop courses to the curriculum is in recognition of the fact that pupils vary in their abilities, capacities, and interests.

The morning parade will start at 10:30 and march to the monument where appropriate exercises will be held after which a dinner will be served at noon in the K. of P. hall in the old school building.

The afternoon program will be held in the new high school auditorium and will be one long to be remembered. Dr. C. G. Jordan, secretary of agriculture of Harrisburg, will deliver the main address, with other speakers and historians giving Battery B records.

"Hot Dogs" Were Palatable Dish Many Centuries Ago

(International News services)
CHICAGO, Ill., June 27—Eating "hot dogs" is an American custom which dates back many centuries, according to J. Eric Thompson, assistant curator in charge of Central and South American archaeology at the Field Museum of Natural History here.

And in ancient times, the "hot dogs" were real—not frankfurters, but genuine canines subject to culinary treatment.

"The Mayas, the Aztecs and the natives of Cuba bred dogs in large numbers for hunting, for sacrifice—and for eating!" Mr. Thompson states.

"The old native breed used as food was hairless and unable to bark. An early seventeenth century description of these dogs reads as follows:

"For want of children they (the natives) sacrifice dogs; they nourish also dogs to eat, as our nation doth conies; which dogs cannot bark, and have snouts like foxes. Such as they purpose to eat, they geld. They reserve store of females for increase, and but a small number of dogs, as our shepherds do, of sheep. They that are gelded, growe marvellous fat."

"Field Museum has on exhibition a number of pottery dogs from western Mexico, and one of them is certainly "marvellous fat." These were found interred with the dead. The Mexican natives believed that dogs would guide them in their long journey to the next world, and usually killed a deceased man's favorite dog and buried it with him to this end. Vermilion colored dogs were believed to be the most efficient at this task. In this connection it is interesting to note that the finest of the museum's pottery dogs is painted bright red.

"The dogs were considered very good eating, and were a favorite dish both among the Mayas and Mexican natives. The gods, too, appear to have been fond of hot dogs, for the animals were frequently sacrificed, particularly if they were appropriately marked. A dog with chocolate colored markings, for instance, was reserved for sacrifice to Ek Chuah, the Maya god of the cacao trees.

"In contrast to the dogs fattened for eating, hunting dogs were kept as thin as possible, so that hunger would urge them to greater effort when pursuing game with their masters."

Swick Recommends Mayor At
New Post

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., June 27—William T. Levis mayor, was recommended yesterday for postmaster of Beaver Falls by Congressman J. Howard Swick to the postoffice department, Washington, D. C. This ends a controversy which injected itself into the recent primary election.

There were seven applicants for the post, including Ralph S. Hood, incumbent. Hood has served two terms and his friends urging a third for him advanced Howard M. McCray, city councilman, as a candidate for Congress against Swick.

Levis, a veteran of the Spanish-American war and member of Company B of the famous "Fighting Tenth" saw service in the Philippine Islands. He is a graduate of Geneva College and for many years was on the stage.

He is rated as one of the best after-dinner speakers in Beaver county. Prior to his election as mayor he served a four years term as burgess of the town.

If the appointment of Levis is confirmed he will likely take up his new duties July 1. His elevation to the postmastership will leave a vacancy in the mayor's office and there is a

Rudeness Of Parents Resented By Children, Avers Column Writer

JACK, BETTY and GARRY, JR.,
Children of Dr. Garry Meyers.

By General Press
CLEVELAND, June 27.—Do you annoy your children? The chances are you do. At least that is the most flagrant vice to be found among parents, according to Dr. Garry Meyers, noted writer of "The Parent Problem" column.

Dr. Meyers whose three children, Jack, Betty and Garry Jr., are being reared at his home in Cleveland according to the practices he preaches (the doctor says they're "just ordinary kids") has strong opinions of parents.

"We parents take ourselves so seriously and our children so lightly that the results often are quite disastrous," Dr. Meyers says. "We often are extremely discourteous to our children. We nag them, we talk back to them, we interrupt their enthusiastic accounts of experiences.

"And when they resent this attitude, we shake our heads and think we have a 'problem' to solve.

"Fortunately, most of our children do resent our rude manners and go ahead anyway. If they meekly submit, you can count on it that they will be bothered all their lives with inferiority complexes. Some of us never have grown away from fears developed in childhood."

Dr. Meyers is head of the division of parental education in Cleveland college, Western Reserve university in Cleveland.

A writer said to him: "Dr. Meyers was a surprise to me. You see, I thought a child psychologist would be a gloomy, diabolical looking kind of person. Well, he isn't. Dr. Meyers is rather short, a little fat, sandy-haired, comfortably homely, and good natured looking—really, he's very attractive.

"And as I listened to him and remembered my own childhood, I found out that he certainly knows how to get inside of a child's mind. The more I listened to him and watched him the more I realized why he is considered one of the finest specialists in his line in the world."

TELLS OF MAKING RUGS IN ORIENT

Have you ever wondered how the beautiful rugs that adorn your rooms are made? R. J. Rashid of New York, who is now spending his vacation here, on Thursday told the writer how rugs are made in Damascus, Syria, the oldest city in the world.

The first step in making a rug is shearing the wool from the sheep. This is done sometime in March or early in April. Then the wool is washed and all the grease taken out.

Dyeing the wool is the next process. Wool is dyed only with vegetable dyes. Any who uses dyes not made from vegetables is fined, placed in jail, and is not permitted to make rugs.

After dyeing the wool the next process is spinning the wool. This like the rest, is done by hand. Following the spinning of the wool it is placed on a loom. Children from seven years of age up, work at the looms. The design is the next step. Rug makers do not sketch designs on paper but just work them out without a program.

After a satisfactory design has been worked out it is completed on the loom.

The rug is finished but several other steps are essential before the rug is placed on the market.

Next the rug is thrown on the road so that everyone can walk on it and soften it as it is hard. The rug is then placed in a river or lake for washing. It is then placed in the market.

"This is how the rugs are made in the orient," Mr. Rashid stated.

Rug workers make about 10 Syrian plaster a day which is equal to about 8 cents in United States money. Any one making 8 cents a day in Syria is considered fortunate.

Mr. Rashid who has been in this country for 27 years worked for many years making rugs in Syria and other places in the orient.

Infant Mortality Rate Is Low Here

Both New Castle And Lawrence County Have Comparatively Low Rate

Both New Castle and Lawrence county as a whole, had a low infant mortality rate in 1929, comparing favorably with the notable decrease in the infant mortality rate of the state, which has dropped from 167 per thousand in 1906 to 70 in 1929.

In the county last year, outside
New Castle, 834 births were recorded with a death rate of 53. This was much higher than in the city where there were but 69 deaths to 1,162 live births.

Rural communities as a whole had a higher death rate than in the cities.
Forest county for example, having 36 deaths per 83 live births. This is due no doubt, to the fact that they are remotely situated from hospitals and expert medical assistance.

SORT OF INSECT

J. S. Hockenberry of 244 Furnace street, found a very unusual large winged insect, the other day. It resembles a locust except for the fact that it is much larger and the wings are of hard, shell-like composition.
It is brown and about two inches long.

Retail Grocers Elect Officers

Organization Has Made Remarkable Growth In The Past Year

Annual election of officers featured the meeting of the New Castle Retail Grocers Association held Tuesday evening at the office of the Association on South Mill street. There was a good attendance of the members and C. Everett Anderson was elected president for the ensuing year, as the successor to M. W. McClelland.

Other officers elected to carry on the activities of this rapidly growing organization are: First Vice-president,
M. C. Crisell; second vice president,
D. Sylvester; secretary, Frank W. Hill;
treasurer, Martin Hietsch; directors,

Benjamin Brown and J. S. Wasilewski.

The retiring officers were President,
M. W. McClelland; first vice president
J. S. Wasilewski; second vice president, James R. MacKenzie; secretary,
C. Everett Anderson; treasurer B.
Budowski; directors, Archie Cohen and Martin Heitsch.

Membership of the Grocers' Association has grown steadily during the past year, having increased from a membership from twenty-two to seventy-two.

During the past year, it sponsored the First Annual Merchants picnic also the highly successful Food Show and Home Beautiful exhibition.

Growth and activity of the Association in the past year has been due in a great measure to the efforts of Frank W. Hill, the executive secretary and manager, who has been with the association just one year.

An effort is being made to have every retail grocer in the city a member of the organization. There are also thirty manufacturers and jobbers affiliated with the association.

PARIS RECALLS WAR TIME ZEPS AT SIGHT OF GRAF

(International News Service)
PARIS, June 27.—Parisians did not find in the recent visit of the Graf Zeppelin a perfect manifestation of the spirit of Locarno. Practically every single inhabitant of the capital watched it circle over the city at the busy noon hour recently and all of them commented upon its grace and beauty, shining like silver in the sun, silhouetted against the Arc de Triomphe, the Place de l'Opera and the bronze column in the Place Vendôme.

But within, they were thinking of the more dangerous "calling cards" other zeppelins of this kind let drop only a few years ago.

"The monster, which seemed to resemble a great flying shark," says "Candide," "seemed to hesitate over the grave of the Unknown Soldier, as though it would like to have thrown down a few flowers. But instead, it left behind its trail nothing more than a peaceful letter-bag."

"Why not pamphlets telling about the Young Plan? Inasmuch as we are now obliged to lend our money to Germany, what better advertisement could there be than that made by the borrower himself, testifying by the aid of small samples, to the good quality of its organization and the final destiny of its produce?"

"Candide" also reminds its readers that, at the same time as she is showing her dirigibles to Paris and London Germany is also busy showing her new cruisers to the people who live on the Mediterranean, those who have not seen the German flag since the days of the "Goeben" and the "Breslau."

"If after all this demonstration," concludes "Candide," "the amateurs of stocks and bonds do not subscribe to Young loan then they are mighty hard to please. Germany is certainly getting on her feet again. We have seen it with our own eyes and have heard her powerful motors. All that was lacking to the Graf Zeppelin was an ingenious apparatus attached to the tail of the 'big fish,' writing in the air: 'Merci for the evacuation of Mayence! Subscribe to the Young loan! See you soon!'"

"I read your ad in the papers and noticed local people pictures that encouraged me to try Ten Herbs. I had tried other medicines but they did not do me a bit of good. I tried two bottles of Ten Herbs and have come back for the third. My stomach feels greatly improved. I do not have gas any more. Noted Spanish Nun Is Dead At Age Of 75

(International News Service)
BARCELONA, June 27.—Sister Blasa Saiz is dead, at the age of 75, 57 years of which were spent in charge of the terno of the Casa de Caridad, as the city orphan asylum is known here. This asylum is run by the Sisters of St. Vincent of Paul and is partly supported by the government. One of its most striking features is its terno, a revolving wooden arrangement embedded in the wall, one half facing the street while the other half has a tray in which unwanted children are left to be taken in by the sister in charge who is not aware of the identity of the person abandoning a child because the person is so built that she cannot see what is going on outside. It is estimated that during the 57 years Sister Blasa was in charge of the terno she took in close to 40,000 children.

The Way OF THE World

ARGUMENT
When we argue—if we must argue—we ought to stick to our reasoning powers rather than fall back on our emotions. And we ought to think of the question rather than the man we are having the argument with. Few arguments are worth while but they might be constructive and informative if we could keep from being so much influenced by the personality of our opponents. It has been said that some people actually begin to hate those who differ in opinion with them. That shows we have not come as far out of the jungle as we may.

THE FARMER WROTES
Somebody writes that the machine age has given the farmer a lot of leisure. He says:
"No longer the plowman homeward plods his weary way. He skips in briskly from the barn, washes up, eats supper and then goes to a movie in town instead of to bed. Mechanical ingenuity has become a bigger asset to the farmer than a strong back."
"One only of the old hand harvesting tasks has been left unconquered by machinery. There has been no royal machine road to the gathering of the corn crop. Once in the wagon there is machinery to elevate it into the crib, but no satisfactory way of getting it into the wagon except by the exercise of main strength and a supple wrist.

"Now they are talking about a machine which will wait through a man's cornfield, husking and shelling the corn and shredding the stalks all in one operation. It not only, according to report, delivers the crop all ready to be shipped or fed, but cleans up a lot of next spring's work by leaving the field strewn with a macerated litter in shape to be plowed under.

"This new contraption, once its merit is proven, is going to make it a lot easier for the boys to get away for the Saturday football game."

Well, the farmers we know are not going to be much fooled by this description of their new leisure. Most of them are too tired when night comes to run to town to a movie show. In fact a lot of them right now wash up, have their supper and go back into the fields.

BRAINS AND BEAUTY
Young men about to marry don't have to choose between brains and beauty. Late intelligence tests show they go together. Tests recently made on 150 of the fairest show girls on Broadway show that the average intelligence runs very high. In the manner in which the psychologist figures, the girls averaged an intelligence rating of 128. Groups of college women have been found with a rating of 127. A group of college men rated 130. And this is interesting—a group of business men averaged only 86.

Re-Allots Money For Building Of Township Roads

Highway Department Announces Additional Total
For Counties

LAWRENCE COUNTY
TO RECEIVE $1,263

Payments To June 10, Total Over Million And Half,
Stuart Reveals

HARRISBURG, June 27.—Certification of $61 township reward road improvement projects and payment of the state's share of the cost were made by the Pennsylvania department of highways from January 1 to June 10, 1930, James Lyall Stuart, secretary of highways, today announced.
The payments total $1,552,097.25.

With several thousands of agreements for township projects on file and hundreds of such projects under construction throughout the year, payments during the remainder of the present year are expected to be unusually heavy, Stuart said. The last general assembly appropriated $6,000-000 for state reward work and so prompt were the townships in filing agreements that many exceeded their allocations and permitted the agreements to stand, pending appropriation of more funds.

Use State Money.
The payments made during 1930 represent improvements costing several times the actual reward total.
Return of the state's share enables the township treasurer to pay off obligations and start new work. Stuart pointed out. Many townships have several agreements in force at one time, starting a new project as soon as another is completed. This enables some townships to use the state money as a revolving fund.

Appropriations for the 1927-29 biennium were $3,000,000, just half of the current appropriation. This was promptly taken by the townships, but cancellation of agreements and slight differences in costs resulted in accumulation of $125,000 for reapportionment of townships that had taken up their original allocations. This makes available, as of June 1, 1930, amounts varying from $139 to more than $4,000 per county but amounting to only a few dollars per township.

Lawrence county's reapportionment totals $1,263 for 745 miles of roadway.
Butler county gets $2,713. Beaver county
$1,556 and Mercer county $2,538.

THE QUESTION BOX CENTRAL PRESS WASHINGTON BUREAU

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box, 126, Washington, dressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital,

How did the three balls as a pawn shop sign originate?

They are the coat of arms of the Medici family, the earliest and most important of the money lenders of Lombardy. The three balls first were used in England by the agent of that family, and were afterwards copied by others. They represent three golden pills, and were used by the Medici family in allusion to the profession of medicine, in which it was eminent and from which it derived its name.

What kind of rock is the Garden of the Gods? How did it acquire the name?

The Garden of the Gods is a grotes-quely curious rock formation of brightly colored sandstone. Authorities say that Lewis N. Tappan and three others went from Denver to select a site for a town, to this region, and on seeing the grandeur of the place exclaimed: "A fit garden for the gods," hence the name.

Are automobile fatalities increasing?

Figures indicate that they are. In 1929 there were 31,000 motor fatalities, an increase of 10 per cent over the previous year.

What is the most effective control method for the Mexican beetle?

The department of agriculture advises the use of a magnesium arsenate spray as the most effective measure.
The poison should be applied at the rate of about two pounds to the acre, and is prepared by mixing two pounds of the magnesium arsenate in 100 gallons of water. In small quantities use one ounce of the chemical to three gallons of water. Agitate the mixture before spraying, and also while spraying. This should not be applied after the bean pods have started to form.

Tuberculosis Is Cause Of Nine Deaths In March

Death Rate In Proportion To Population Of County Is High, Statistics Show

Nine people died from tuberculosis in Lawrence county during March, statistics issued by the Bureau of Vital Statistics, Pennsylvania Department of Health show.

The rate is fairly high in proportion to the population, in comparison with other counties, Mercer county for example, reporting but two deaths, with a larger population than Lawrence county.

Four deaths also resulted from nephritis and 17 from heart diseases, according to the records issued by the state.

During the same month, the following cases of communicable diseases were reported: diphtheria, 6; measles, 135; scarlet fever, 14; typhoid fever, 0; whooping cough, 15.

At the inquest over the suicide of a woman at Eastbourne, England, recently, a doctor testified that since having five teeth extracted three years ago she dreamed, when well, of being ill, and when ill she dreamed of being well.

Forester Shares Water Hole With Bear When Flames Get Too Hot

HARRISBURG, June 27.—A number of unique experiences in fighting forest fires have been reported following the recent spring fire season. Chief Forester Warden George H. Wirt, of the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters, said today:

District Forester T. I. Shirey with headquarters at Johnstown, reports an unusual experience in which one of his fire wardens was caught in a forest fire and had to take refuge with a real live bear in a waterhole. Warden Alfred A. Bathurst, of Beilwood, received the call that assistance was needed on a forest fire spreading rapidly in the vicinity of Daugherty in Dean township, Cambria county. On joining with other fire fighting crews directed by Forest Inspector Chamberlain, he was assigned to a particular section of the fire with his spray tank. The tank needed refilling while the fire was at its height and Bathurst started for a trusty water-hole familiar to the local forest protection forces.

On filling his spray tank the warden began his return trip to the point of attack, which led through a scrub-oak thicket. The scrub oak not only retarded his progress but added fuel to the flames, assisting the quick sweep of the fire. Bathurst was forced to turn back and sought refuge in the water hole. This time he found a large bear lying in the water with its tongue out and panting.

"The bear did not offer to molest me nor did I try to run away until after the flames had passed," concluded Bathurst. "We stayed in the water-hole together for possibly fifteen minutes. When Mr. Bruin got up it seemed as if he was nearly exhausted as he staggered out and had a difficult time getting up the bank. Then he slowly walked off through the woods, headed away from where the fire was still burning."

"Another peculiar angle to the incident," relates District Forester Shirey "is that when Warden Bathurst had been missing for some time he was given up for lost and reported burned to death by both the inspector and his fellow wardens. One of the wardens, who claimed that the flames leaped fully 100 feet in the air, said that it was impossible for Bathurst still to be alive under the conditions the fire assumed."

Magazine For Blind "Read" In All Corners Of World

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 27.—When the light went out of the eyes of Helen Day she sent her "Searchlight" into the world to illuminate the drab lives of blind children.

"Her 'Searchlight' is a magazine in Braille, the printed language of those who must read by the sense of touch. It is unique in purpose and content. The 'Searchlight' goes into far corners of the world, even reaching New Zealand and Abyssinia, to bring stories to blind kiddies about the world they cannot see.

"I always look for stories full of good descriptions," said Miss Day, "for I know how hard it is for a blind child to set the scene of an episode. You would think that people who can see would observe more carefully, but they don't. And they never write down the details which a blind person wants to know."

When the doctor told her at the age of 12 "You are going blind," Miss Day did not let the tragedy of being sightless overwhelm her. Already she was deaf. She learned the language of the blind. But she did not find enough books in that language to satisfy her, so when she grew up she sought to give more reading matter to other children who were finding all too little to read. Now, after 22 years, her "Searchlight" goes quarterly into the homes of blind children.

In all of its 22 years the magazine has not brought a single complaint to Miss Day, the editor. It is one periodical that apparently pleases all its readers.

The use of Braille type sets a rigid limit on the contents of the publication. But each issue contains one story, and article and a poem. Boys' and girls' issues are alternated.

In the time she is not editing the "Searchlight" Miss Day has written an autobiography and compiled a volume of her favorite poems. But her hardest task, she says, was a 25,000 word outline of English literature from Chaucer to today's writers. She did it, she explains, "just to find out for myself what I knew about literature."

Her greatest recreation, she says, is work, and best of all working on the short story contest which she conducts in her magazine. All readers of "Searchlight" can compete for the $50 prize.

"We get stories from everywhere," Miss Day says. "The blind children's work usually is highly imaginative and full of action. That guides me in my search for the kind of material I think I like in the magazine."

Barn Is Destroyed By Lightning Stroke

SLIPPERY ROCK, Pa., June 27.—Lightning caused a loss of $1,600 when it struck a barn belonging to Roy McGowan, in Worth township, and completely destroyed it, together with all the farm implements in the building. The barn was consumed so rapidly that Mr. McGowan scarcely had time to rescue his horses. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

Burns Defends City Controller

Greer Refuses To Honor Bill For Natale Drive-way

COUNCIL APPROVES FIRE DAMAGE BILL

Council today in session at City hall approved a bill of damages, amounting to $21.75 to Frank Natale, but it was approved on a three-two basis and may not be paid by City Controller Phil Green.

Allegations presented claim that a city electrician in making repairs to the light system, damaged by a bus, left Natale's driveway in such a condition that when a thaw arrived during winter, it left a rough edge on the driveway.

Natale claims he drove his automobile into the driveway at 301 Liberty street and as a result had to have one tire repaired at a cost of $3.75 and buy a new tire at a cost of $18.

Inspector Henry Dysart, at the behest of Solicitor White, conducted an investigation and Dysart, in his report to White, stated that Natale knew the driveway was in the condition it was.

Natale denied this, it is understood, council having been informed that the edge had been covered over and when a thaw came, it left the edge unprotected with the damage as stated in his complaint.

It developed that a new driveway 31x4 had been put in which caused Councilman Burns to state the "the city had no right to put in a new driveway."

Councilman Reeves took the attitude that the city having caused the damage should make things right.

Councilman Burns maintained that the only thing that should have been done would have been to repair the damage where it occurred.

It developed that the city controller Phil Greer, had refused to honor the bill presented to the city for payment.

Solicitor White informed council that he could not recommend it be paid.

"I don't care whether or not you recommend it. It will be paid," remarked Councilman Reeves.

Councilman Genkinger said he had seen the condition and said "it is no wonder the tires had been damaged."

Doesn't Take Orders
Reeves maintained it could not be repaired.

"It is a bad precedent" said Burns, meaning the driveway.

Solicitor White said the city was liable for the sidewalk, but not if the car was operated over it recklessly and Natale could not recover in law.

Councilman Treser then developed Natale did not know the condition on account of a thaw.

Reeves presented the motion that the bill for the tires be paid and it was approved with Burns and Mayor Gillespie dissenting.

Councilman Burns said that payment depends upon Controller Greer and then came the question from Reeves as to what power Greer has.

Burns told him he was not subject to orders from city council. He defended Greer's position and some councilmen asked "Why a controller?"

"Look at some of the counties" said Burns mentioning Allegheny. He said Lawrence county has none but the officials would like to have one.

The bills have been approved for the tires and the driveway and are now before Greer.

It is possible he may approve the tire bill as council's majority believe the damage was sustained as stated.

However, Greer indicated today that he will give serious attention to the driveway bill. It may and may not be paid.

Gopher Snake Becomes Hitch-Hiker

(International News Service) VISALIA, Cal., June 27.—Fifty or more businessmen of Visalia dropped their work and formed an interested crowd on the main business thoroughfare here late recently just because an ordinary gopher snake had decided to go into the hitch-hiking business.

A gopher snake on Main street was quite interesting in itself but this snake wriggled across the pavement, climbed to the running board of a parked car and sneaked under the hood. The car owner, unknowingly, drove on his way and, perhaps, was an astonished discoverer some hours later.

LONE PRISONER ALMOST WRECKS POLICE FORCE

(International News Service)
DENVER, Col., June 27.—"Your name," demanded Detective John Wilson of a loiterer on Sixteenth street, "Smith," was the laconic reply.

A search of Smith revealed a screw-driver. Wilson called a patrol wagon.

The next ten minutes provided spectators with a battle of excitement. The prisoner wrestled away from the officer, dashed across the street and as he was being overtaken, fell in front of the officer, who stumbled and fell headlong.

In the ensuing scuffle Wilson's pistol dropped from his holster and a spectator kicked it aside. The almost-prisoner escaped from a toe hold and was making for neutral territory again—but this time in the path of a passing truck.

The machine ran over his body and struck Detective Wilson. The suspect appeared unhurt by the accident and tried a third time to escape. Only by the timely arrival of a deputy sheriff was the suspect subdued until the arrival of a patrol wagon.

Enroute to the city jail the suspect battled several officers and the riot squad was necessary to get him inside a cell, police said.

A few minutes after he was lodged in his cell "Smith" attempted to strangle himself with his belt. Police found he had tampered with the lock on his cell when they tried to enter and were forced to saw their way inside to save his life.

At the police station the suspect was identified as Arthur Fatjo, an artist, who a few weeks previously had been arrested on complaint by his wife, who said he had tried to kill her.

Bees Leave Honey In School Walls

(International News Service)
PETALUMA, Cal., June 27.—Trustees of the Eureka school, near here, are confronted with the problem of removing 400 pounds of honey from between walls of the school building without tearing the structure down.

A swarm of bees entered the school through holes drilled by woodpeckers. School was dismissed temporarily, and a rush call was sent to the office of the county horticultural commissioner.

Use of chemicals drove the bees away and it was then discovered that several hundred pounds of honey had been left in between the walls.

O. E. Bremner, county agricultural agent, estimated the harvest at 400 pounds.

(International News Service)
MEXICO CITY, June 27.—All members of the Mexican army will be able to read and write within another year, according to General Joaquin Amaro, secretary of war.

Due to the efforts of General Amaro to wipe illiteracy in the army, it is estimated that 65 per cent of the 60,000 soldiers in the Mexican army are now able to read and write. Special classes are conducted daily to teach reading and writing.

CHINESE HAVE MANY ODD WAYS OF MAKING MONEY

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, June 27.—Clever these Chinese. Make money in the oddest sort of ways. Some of them, the National Geographic Society declared in a bulletin today raise deer for the fuz on their horns—actually. They ship it to China towns where the natives use it for medicinal purposes, the bulletin said—neglecting to state just what ailment a dose of deer horn fuz remedies.

It appears from the Geographic bulletin that China's people have a way of turning a penny on many a queer product undreamed of as saleable by the average layman.

Dried crickets and cricket dust, gall stones from deer, beef blood, and other unusual things are only a few of the products which weight the bottom of the swishing craft that carries on China's national commerce it was learned.

"In the mixed cargoes from China ports" said the bulletin, "custom inspectors find cases of pig bristles, destined to foreign manufacturers, dried crickets, used for cancer ailments, dried egg yolk, and all sorts of odd things."

"Down the Yangtze from remote parts of China sail native craft with cargoes of tung oil, an ingredient of oil cloth and varnish that will not water stain; and sticklac, the cap of an oriental tree, used by shellac and sealing wax manufacturers."

Human hair still takes a couple of trips across the Pacific before America's women wear it on their heads. It is shipped raw from China to the United States, treated and dyed here, reshipped to China where it is made into hairnets, and sent back to the United States.

"Totes" Installed Throughout England

(International News Service)
LONDON, June 27.—Automatic electric totalisators are being installed on all the principal racing tracks in England.

They look something like ordinary telephone switchboards and are operated much the same way.

Money placed on a horse is raked in by hand, but the ticket is issued automatically. The same button which releases the ticket also operates the indicator above the betting booths, bringing the total betting on each horse in the race up to the minute.

Bets may be placed in units of fifty cents, $2.50, $5, $50, or $500, separate booths being provided for the different units.

Winnings are paid out five minutes after the finish of each race.

So far the "Totes" have proved a tremendous success, almost putting the bookmakers out of business, because "Tote" odds on a winning horse which may have been a rank outsider can be many times higher than any "bookie" would dare to offer.

Churchman Hits Women's Bobbed Hair

MODESTO, Cal., June 27.—Bobbed haired women were denounced before the national convention here of the Old German Baptists, a branch of the Dunkard Church.

"The woman who cuts her hair has no hope of glory," declared Elder J. P. Ray of Ohio, basing his assertion on a passage in the Epistles of St. Paul. He also criticized the "impertinence of the younger generation."

Elder Harry Benedict of Pennsylvania in an address to the convention declared that the churches were losing their power through attempting "to meddle with affairs which concern the state."

While supporting national prohibition, Elder Benedict said that was nothing in the Bible "which tells a man to go out and fight for prohibition."

Charter Cavalcade To Feature Fete

(International News Service)
BOSTON, June 27.—The "Charter Cavalcade" ceremonial and its spectacular procession will be an outstanding event of the June celebration of the Massachusetts Tercentennial.

The cavalcade, consisting of three gigantic floats depicting three important events in the gaining of American Independence, will meet the reproduced ship, "Arabella" upon its entrance into Salem Harbor, June 12.

The "Arabella" will have aboard passengers and crew dressed according to the time with Governor Winthrop impersonated who will bring ashore the great charter of 1629 that formed the background for the government not only of the Bay Colony but of much of all America.

The three great floats each drawn by six matched horses and on which trained men and women will enact the respective events typified by the floats—"Granting of the Great Charter, 1629," "The Arbella" and "The Charter"—will then proceed through ten cities and towns over a twenty-six mile route remaining in each community for a day.

The cavalcade will end its journey at the State House, Boston, and will take part in a great pageant-parade of 100 similar floats about August 16 and on September 17 as part of an illuminated night parade.

To Honor First French Journalist

(International News Service)
PARIS, June 27.—Preparations are now being made for the worthy celebration of the tercentenary of the birth of journalism in France. Dr. Theophraste Renaudot, who published the first French newspaper, "The Gazette," on May 30, 1631, laid down rules which are still those of honest journalism.

In one of his early numbers this editor wrote to his readers and contributors that he did not wish them to send in news that was not absolutely true. "I intend," he said, "that the Gazette shall have no other passion than the passion for truth."

Although Renaudot, who was first a doctor, had many powerful collaborators, such as Louis XIII and Cardinal Richelieu, he died in extreme poverty.

CONGRESSMAN PORTER DIES IN PITTSBURGH

had been associated in the narcotics conference at Geneva, Switzerland. Since being brought to the hospital from Washington two weeks ago, the congressman had received a gift of flowers, plucked from the White House conservatory, every other day from President Hoover.

Stephen Geyer Porter, who died today in Pittsburgh, was 61 years old. He was born near Salem, in Columbiana county, Ohio, on May 18, 1869, and eight years later moved to Allegheny, Pa., where he had since resided.

It was in Allegheny that he first became interested in the legal profession, having previously studied medicine for two years. He studied and read law in the office of his brother, L. K. Porter, and was admitted to the Allegheny county bar in December, 1893.

Although keenly interested in political activities and a staunch Republican, Porter never held office until he was elected to the 62nd congress from the tenth Pennsylvania congressional district with the exception of the post of city solicitor of the city of Allegheny for a three-year term, from 1903 to 1906.

His election to the 62nd congress, however, launched him upon a public career that carried him from the 62nd to the 71st congresses, he being re-elected each term in consecutive order.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The death of Rep. Stephen G. Porter (R) of Pennsylvania, for many years chairman of the house foreign affairs committee and leader in the fight to internationally restrict use of narcotics caused a wave of regret throughout the capital today.

Porter was a popular figure in the house. The chairmanship of the house foreign affairs committee probably will go to Rep. Henry W. Temple (R) of Pennsylvania. Temple, now serving his 18th year in congress from Washington, Pa., is the ranking Republican on the committee. Next in line for it is Rep. Hamilton Fish (R) of New York.

"Foul Checks" To Be Issued Fans At Prize Fights

"Foul Checks" Same As Rain Checks Will Be Used To Stop Fouling

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, June 27.—"Foul checks" is the answer of the Pennsylvania Athletics Commission to the heavyweight boxer perpetrated at the Phillies' Park Monday night, according to an announcement by Frank Wiener, chairman of the governing body, made in a radio address last night.

To prevent a recurrence of boxers "fouling out" in future ring contests in this state, chairman Wiener stated that tickets to all shows will have four checks attached, similar to rain checks, and the principals in case of a foul will be required to box again without compensation.

"Every fan will be cautioned to retain his foul check," said Wiener. "In the event of a foul in the main or feature bout the boxing patron will be enabled to see a return bout between the two main contestants upon the payment of a small nominal sum of, say 50 cents or a dollar."

"The nominal sum" the chairman explained, "is designed to pay for the cost of preliminary bouts and rental of the field or arena."

Bar Association Delegates Hear Atlee Pomerene

CONVENTION TO WINDUP TODAY

(International News Service)
BEDFORD SPRINGS, Pa., June 27.—Election of officers today was to bring the 36th annual convention of the Pennsylvania Bar association now in session here to a close.

Owen J. Roberts of Philadelphia, newly appointed associate justice of the supreme court, was guest of honor at a banquet following the convention sessions last night. Atlee Pomerene, former senator from Ohio, was the chief speaker at the banquet, paying tribute to the work of Judge Roberts.

Other speakers were Frederick J. Clark, Philadelphia attorney, and William H. Keller of Lancaster, Pennsylvania superior court jurist.

The association went on record as voicing opposition to changes in the constitution relation to nomination and appointment of federal judges; to amend the state constitution so as to permit passage of laws exempting small estates from inheritance taxes, and as "unalterably opposed" to curtailing jurisdiction of the federal district courts as proposed in a bill before the United States Senate. Opposition to the small estate-inheritance tax amendments was based on the ground that such laws could be enacted without alteration of the constitution.

The association also went on record as favoring passage of an act abolishing old form writs served in actions with statements of claim; simplification of legal procedure so that service of a summons by a sheriff shall not be required at the time suit is brought; referring the problem of unlawful practice of law by corporations and unlicensed persons and trust companies especially to the committee on civil law and recommending draft and submission of bill to mid-winter executive committee, bill if approved to be submitted to State legislature.

Utility Stocks Are Unsettled

Bears In Market Turn Attention Toward Utility, Motor And Railroad Stocks

RAILROAD STOCKS ON DOWN TURN

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, June 27.—Bears in the stock market turned their attention today to the motor, utility, railroad and utility shares, when the $371,000,000 decrease in brokers' loans failed to stimulate any great volume of either investment or speculative buying, the bears took up their task of hammering the market from stem to stern, in their new hunt for "weak spots."

A new 6 1-2 point break in North American to 10 1-2 unsettled the utility stock group, and prices of a dozen or more of the leaders moved off 1 to 3 points. Westinghouse and General Electric presented a weak front to bearish attack and slipped off about 3 points on the average.

Rail Stocks Drop
Southern Railway was a weak spot in the railroad list, with a 6 1-2 point drop to 91, but Atchafalaya sold off easily to 197 for a loss of five points, and New York Central lost 4 1-2 points at 153 1-2. Current railroad earnings reports show a 30 per cent shrinkage from the same months of last year, and the June car loadings and July outlook promise little better.

As a rule the mercantile stocks were reactionary, with Sears-Roebuck leading the definite downward move. This stock broke below 60 for the first time this year, a loss of 40 points from the high of the year. Montgomery-Ward and Woolworth made a better showing. Goodyear Rubber lost five points and sold down to the year's low at 54 3-4. General Motors was the chief target of the bear sharpshooters in the motor list, but held fairly well around 38, down 2 1-8. DuPont, a large stockholder, shrunk 4 1-2 points to 100.

She was dressed in a dark brown dress, with a light colored collar, light brown coat, black shoes, and was without a hat when she left.

For two solid hours pedestrians and motorists were so puzzled and panicked by the traffic signals because a damaged cable caused the signals to act as if they were laden with cheap liquor. After much embarrassment on the part of the traffic cops, everything was straightened out.

Annual Outing Of Congregation On Thursday At Weingartner Home

After threatening several times J. Pluvius decided to be friendly with the Sunday school of the Epworth M. E. church Thursday afternoon and give the folks a dry day for the annual picnic held at the home of Senator and Mrs. George T. Weingartner. About three hundred twenty-five attended, the dinner tables accommodating them being set out under the trees of the front lawn.

In the afternoon Rev. Samuel L. Maxwell, pastor of the church conducted a program of sports for the younger people. Races, baseball and volleyball games comprised the program.

The dinner was served family style, three long tables being spread. Following the dinner, a short program of entertainment was presented from the front porch, the guests being grouped on the lawn.

Rev. J. L. Petrie, formerly associate pastor of Epworth, now pastor of the West Middlesex M. E., gave an impersonation of Sir Harry Lauder. Rev. Petrie, a native Scotchman was dressed in Scotch kilts and sang a number of songs. Paul McCurdy presented a number of trombone solos, with the Sunday School orchestra being heard in a number of selections directed by Ernest McCreary.

Rev. H. C. Weaver, now of the First church, a former pastor of Epworth was introduced and spoke briefly and another former pastor, Dr. C. G. Farr, now District Superintendent was a guest of honor at the picnic.

Many Forfeit Bail In Mercer Court

Many Fail To Present Appearance For Crimes; Other News Of District

MERCER, Pa., June 27.—Bail forfeitures at the term now amount to $6,000. This last to be added was that of Gerald Weeks of Sharon held on $1500 bail on a liquor charge.

The liquor case against August Saul of Grove City was continued to the October term.

In the action in which Raymond Schonfeld of Grove City is charged with allowing another to drive his car while intoxicated, the jury returned a verdict of guilty.

21 CASES REMAIN

There remains 21 of the 52 cases listed for trial at the June criminal sessions to dispose of during the remaining three days of the week.

It is learned today that Judge J. A. McLaughry is very anxious to get the list worked off this week in some way. Farmers on the jury are anxious to get home to their fields. It is the one term of the year when the demand for release from jury service comes from the farmers.

It is likely that a number of cases will be continued to effect this arrangement should the end of the week find the list with cases yet to be heard.

COLLECT WOOL POOL

Collection of the 1930 wool pool starts today. It will be graded as it is brought in by W. B. Connel of the State college extension bureau.

TEN SEEK CONTRACT

There will be ten bidders on the interior decoration of the court house, is the expectation of Commissioner W. A. Bone in whose department comes this work. The bids are to be returned for consideration of the commissioners and Architect E. E. Clepper on next Monday.

Just as soon as a winner can be determined they will be urged to get to work. The plan is to have the building completed in 60 days so that by the time of the fall courts the work will be all over.

The advisability of replacing the old lighting system with a more modern one and making a repair of plumbing and such other needs of building is being urged on the commissioners by citizens who are interested in seeing that a complete job is made of it. It is pointed out that the repairs are the first since the building was erected on the inside and that one job should cover it all.

TO BEAUTIFY ROADWAY

The state highway department plans to beautify their state roads and are planting shrubbery to cover the dirt banks where cuts have been made of recent date.

This new ruling effects the Sharon-Mercer road on the new stretch through the James Wright farm.

SIGNS PETITION

Judge J. A. McLaughry today signed a petition for an operation for little John Backovich of Sharon, who is the eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Backovich.

The relief was petitioned by W. A. Matland and Carl D. Jeffries, who are of the Sharon group of men interested in this work. The child will be operated on at Buhl hospital.

This petition is one of a number that have been signed here by the judge under the provisions of an act of assembly which makes it possible to secure county aid where the parents are not able to provide it.

TO PAINT BRIDGES

It will cost $15,000 as an estimate of painting the bridges that are in need of this protection from the weather in Mercer county today, is the report of the office of the commissioners. Bids on paint will be taken at the office. The work will start shortly that the bridges proposed for painting may be finished by fall.

A short cut to the work is being taken in having the bridges painted where the channels are being blown out to protect the abutments from floods.

Eighty bridges will be painted before fall, 20 channels of county streams are to be widened by this method during the same time.

LIENS REDUCED

During the last week the 1076 liens taken on the sealed lands of the county which would mean those on which tax was not paid in 1929 were reduced by 100.

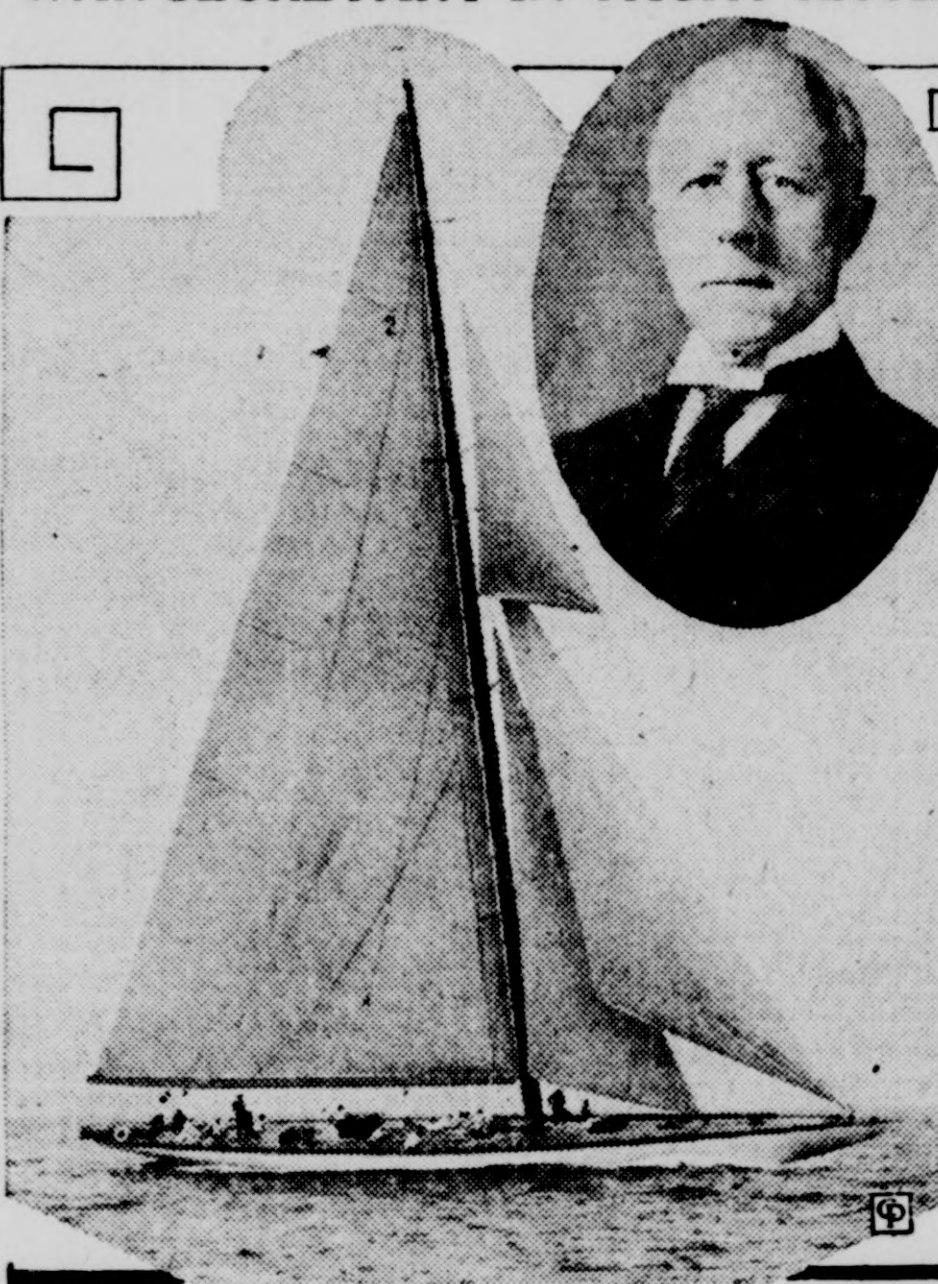

The land is listed for sale the first of August under the provisions of a new tax law which provides for a penalty of one per cent each month after January 1 of the succeeding year in which the tax is payable and if not paid by May 1 of that year its being listed for sale in August.

Marie Antoinette's Farm Is Near Ruin

(International News Service)
PARIS, June 27.—Unless someone comes quickly to the rescue, the charming little model farm built for Marie Antoinette, the Petit Trianon at Versailles, will soon fall in ruins. Half of the pretty little mill has already collapsed and the remainder is propped up by ugly beams. The dairy and little rustic cottages by the pond are sadly neglected and unless quickly repaired, will also collapse.

Collegiate Golfer Has Narrow Escape

Lightning Hits Umbrella That Golfer Carries While Playing At Oakmont Course

(International News Service)
OAKMONT, Pa., June 27.—East clashes with the Mid-West and Pacific coast today in the semi final round of the intercollegiate golf championships. Phillips Finley of Harvard plays Larry Moller of Notre Dame and George Dunlap of Princeton opposes Winston Fuller of Southern California.

Finlay won from Sam Perry of Alabama, two up and one to play, and Moller downed Marshall Forrest of Yale, by the same score in the quarter-final matches at 36 holes. Fuller won from Charles Eaton, Harvard, four and three and Dunlap eliminated Sam Parks, Pittsburgh, three and two.

Moller narrowly escaped death or serious injury when lightning struck an umbrella he was holding over his head during a shower at the eighth green. His arm was numbed but he was able to continue play and shortly afterward felt no bad effects.

Russia Soon To Have New Skyscraper

(International News Service)
LENINGRAD, June 27.—The second skyscraper in Soviet Russia is planned for Leningrad, now as of old the most distinguished city in the country. It will be a 15 story hotel building with a theatre and motion picture palace on the lower floors. There will be 1,000 guest rooms.

The building will tower like a spire in the center of a ring of lesser shops and office structures on the famous Nevsky Prospect, now called the Avenue of the 25th of October.

To accommodate this season's tourists an office block of the railroad administration has been remodeled into a hotel at a cost of 1,300,000 rubles.

Merchants Plan For Big Picnic Here On July 23

COMMITTEE NAMED FOR DOLLAR DAY

Many Other Matters Up For Discussion At Meeting In Elks Club Thursday Evening

At the meeting of the Better Business Bureau, the merchants division of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce, held last evening in the Elks club, decision was made to hold the annual Merchants Picnic at Cascade Park on July 23.

The meeting which was presided over by Emanuel Shenken was held as a dinner meeting, and was largely attended by members of the organization.

It is hoped to have every merchant in New Castle co-operate with the picnic this year, to make it one of the biggest events of the season. At the merchants picnic last year, it was estimated that approximately 18,000 people were in attendance, and plans are now being carried out to make this year's event even larger.

The committee which will have charge of this year's picnic is composed of the following:

Frank W. Hill, chairman, representing the New Castle Retail Merchants Association, Reed McCullough of the New Castle Printing Co.; H. R. Huston of the Huston Hardware Co.; H. M. Kirk, Jr., of Kirk-Hutton Co.; DeLace Cole of the W. J. Offutt Co.; L. F. Flynn, P. W. Woolworth Co.; G. E. Yost, F. and W. Grand Silver Stores; H. W. Bowen, G. C. Murphy Co.

Plan Dollar Day
The Trades and Labor Assembly received the endorsement of the Better Business Bureau in their efforts to secure advertisement for their program and year book for the Labor Day celebration, and will be given a letter of endorsement to the business interests of the community.

The holding of Dollar Day was taken up for discussion and definite decision was made to hold another Dollar Day. Arrangements for the date and plans were referred to the date and plans were referred to the following committee:

DeLace Cole, chairman; W. J. Offutt Co.; George Fox, D. G. Ramsey and Sons; Ted Higgins, Higgins Brothers; J. L. Rocks, Fisher Brothers; Carl Fries, Fisher Brothers; Carl Paisley, Paisley Pharmacy; J. M. Goheen, New Castle Dry Goods Co.; L. E. Lull, Nesner Brothers; E. F. Flynn, F. W. Woolworth Co.; Miss Mary Gaines, The Strouss-Hirschberg Co.

The Better Business Bureau received kind expressions of thanks and appreciation from Frank Hill of the New Castle Retail Grocers Association for the excellent cooperation and support accorded the committee in the conducting of the recent G. A. R. convention.

Favorable interest in the activities of the Better Business Bureau was expressed by those in attendance and this meeting was one of the most interesting ever held.

Favorable comment was received on the work being done by the Better Business Bureau to curb promiscuous soliciting of advertising in New Castle. This one activity of the Better Business Bureau has saved the business interests and citizens of New Castle thousands of dollars this year.

Frenchmen Praises U. S. Movie Stars

PARIS, June 27.—"American film stars are by far the world's best," reported Vicomte Alain de Leche, French Writer, upon his arrival from a six months sojourn at Hollywood recently.

"They are so good, in fact, that they have even accomplished the speaking of very passable French, making their art complete." The Frenchman is full of enthusiasm for the talkies and believes in a great future for them.

TOLD IN NEW WAY
Breathlessly the holidaymaker dashed onto the platform.

"Porter," he gasped, "when does the half-past five train leave?"
"Five-thirty, sir, of course."
"Well, the church clock is 27 minutes past, the town hall clock is 25 minutes past and your clock is 32 minutes past. Now, in the name of goodness, which clock am I to go by?"
"You can go by any clock you like, sir," said the porter, "but you can't go by that train—it's gone!"

Ship-To-Shore Phone Placed On Homeric

(International News Service)
LONDON, June 27.—Atlantic ship-to-shore telephone service has been extended to include the White Star liner, Homeric, which is the first ship to be fitted with the new short wave marine telephone equipment, as used by the Marchese Marconi in the recent experiments on board his yacht, "Eletra," when he carried on a conversation with Australia over a distance of more than 9,000 miles.

Through this service the officials of the Homeric were able to talk with the home office of the line and compare the weather 1200 miles off shore with that of London.

Here's The Young Man Known As Seth Parker To So Many Radio Fans

By YANNER ALEXANDER
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, June 27.—Seth Parker and Jonesport are familiar to millions of radio listeners. It is Phillips Haynes Lord, whose brain conceived, and whose personal experiences have furnished the background and atmosphere for Sunday at Seth Parkers.

When Lord, his studio associates call him "Phil," takes on the character of Seth and begins one of his programs, he mentally recreates scenes which surround him during most of his life. Not yet 28 years old, and boyish-looking, his keen delight and interest in the quaint characters of "down east" Maine during his boyhood and young manhood have given him insight into a composite 70-year-old character which makes his portrayal vital. Seth Parker and his neighbors live in the minds of the fans in a way achieved by probably no other feature on the air.

No Disillusionment
Watching a broadcast is not disillusionment. The clothes worn by Lord, young Mrs. Lord, who plays "Lizzie," and the rest of the townspeople are, with the microphones and studio apparatus, the only out-of-character things to be seen. When Seth begins his prayer, his conviction is so great as to make the onlooker feel he has reached an actual community and been invited to a "meeting" of a few neighbors.

Not one of the 12 members of the cast moves during the silent prayer. Lord bends his knees when Seth is supposed to bend his. The atmosphere is so true in its spirit of homely reverence that what might be travesty becomes synthesis, then reality.

The fact that probably half the weekly fan letters, between 5,000 and 7,000, come from allegedly hard-boiled and sophisticated city dwellers, and the other half from people very like the inhabitants of the real Jonesport, is traceable entirely to the sincerity of the whole production. When Lord first gave a test program for the chain stations, the officials were surprised after it was all over to realize they had heard a religious program and not "Seth Parker's Singing School," which had been previously so successful over independent stations as to attract the notice of the "big time." There were doubts at first of the wisdom of injecting such a note but, to the credit of the public and the program, no letter criticizing the taste of this increasingly evident theme has yet come in.

From New England
Born in Hartford, Vt., Lord's boyhood was in Meriden, Conn., where his father was pastor of the First Congregational church. The family When Seth begins his prayer the onlookers feel he has reached an actual community and been invited to a "meeting" of a few neighbors.

still lives there. The summer months he spent largely in Ellsworth, Me., with his grandfather.

In 1925, Lord was graduated from Bowdoin college at Brunswick, Me., leaving behind him a record of extreme vitality, a degree of mischief and popularity. He married his childhood sweetheart, Sophia McComery, three weeks later, after having obtained the principalship of the Plainville, Conn., high school. She was a teacher there and they began the first year together instructing. There are now two children.

Two years later Lord came to New York, began writing for magazines, which he has successfully kept up, and finally entered the radio world through the medium of Seth Parker sketches.

Grove City Raises Quota For Hospital

Cover Deficit In Operating Expenses Of Hospital

GROVE CITY, June 27.—At the meeting of the Grove City Rotary Club R. E. English, chairman of the local hospital drive committee, reported that the quota of $40,000 had been reached yesterday with still several subscriptions that he knew of to come in. The quota will be over-subscribed, according to Mr. English.

In commenting upon the drive it was stated that the officials of the Cooper-Bessemer Company had subscribed 25 per cent of the amount and spoke volumes for the organization as to their interests in this city.

There was also a large number of small subscriptions under $100, and according to Chairman English the total amount of the subscriptions under $100 was considerably greater than the amount subscribed over $100. This, according to Chairman English, shows the spirit of the drive and how favorable the proposition was received by the people of Grove City.

Says One-Sixth Of U. S. Marriages End In Divorce

(International News Service)
BOSTON, Mass., June 27.—The divorce question in this country is a serious one.

Such is the opinion of Dr. David D. Vaughan, professor of social ethics in Boston University's school of Theology, in expressing his views on marriage, the home and divorce.

"In 1887 the ratio was only one divorce in 17 possibilities," declared the Boston University sociologist. "Today the average is one in six; and it is going to get worse because of individualism and moral anarchy. People cannot live together until they learn how to do so."

"The women's clubs of this country are advocating a uniform divorce law. I do not believe in it, because we do not know what we want. Let all of the states experiment first, and then draw up a uniform law. What is put through by the state must be decided by sufficient experiment."

"Marriage is the only contract in this country that cannot be broken by mutual consent," continued the professor. "This is not so in the Scandinavian countries where husband and wife without children live apart for a year if they mutually wish divorce, in order to make sure it was not a temporary flight. If at the end of that time they still wish to separate, a divorce is granted with no trouble whatsoever."

Discussing marriage, the educator declared that "love and sex are fleeting things." It requires more than that to make a happy marriage. The ego in man makes him want children. The idea of oblivion is repugnant to him, for he does not want to die when he is laid in the grave, but wants to live in his children and children's children for generations and centuries to come.

"Men and women should marry while young," Dr. Vaughan continued. "If a man waits until he has finished college and started in the medical profession, for example, he will be around 30 before he can marry. At 30 or 35 a man is generally disillusioned, and often postpones marriage for economic reasons."

Dr. Vaughan points out also that for economic reasons the large family is not so necessary today as it was in historical times. "A large family in the days of Abraham, and, in our times," says Dr. Vaughan, "was a tremendous advantage. The sons worked the farms, the daughters spun the cloth, dried the vegetables, made the soap, and such things. In colonial days, a bachelor had no chance. In fact, they sent to England for 90 wives for the bachelors of the Bay Colony, and it was through these 90 women that this nation has survived. I believe that ermine which is essentially for formal wear.

After fur, velvet or soft lame is the next best selection for the smart evening jacket. Pale pink panne or velvet trimmed with pink fox and lined with pink lame shot with silver, is as cozy as it is luxurious. For the elderly woman there is a lovely purple faille lined with sable-shaded velvet and with a sable collar. It completes a gown of papal purple georgette with a train lined with gold.

Paquin uses two enormous foxes to collar a wonderful wrap of white and silver lame. The collar, after all, is the most important part of the evening jacket. Fox is most effective in all colors on light wraps and nothing can replace silver fox. These large collars are not set low down in shawl fashion, but stand high up and away from the neck in most imposing manner.

MOURN LOSS OF GEN. SUTTER'S OLD DISTILLERY

(International News Service)
By GILBERT GORDON
International News Service Special Correspondent

SACRAMENTO Cal., June 27.—California historians are in mourning as a result of the loss to posterity of General Sutter's primitive distillery. It marks the disappointing climax of a long search for the original copper still which brewed the firewater quaffed by frontier Argonauts long before the discovery of gold in California.

The old abode distillery stands today in Sutter's Fort, but the original still long has been missing. In his program of restoring the crumbling fort building, Henry C. Peterson, the curator, was determined to locate the ancient liquor-making machine.

"We traced the old still to several localities and discovered that it was actually in existence 15 years ago," Peterson said. "But we met our final disappointment on learning that it had been sold for junk near the old 49'er mining camp of 'Ruff and Ready' made famous by Bret Harte. Restoration of other old structures on the fort grounds went ahead briskly recently as historical relics literally were washed with poison solutions and boiled in oil to preserve their original condition."

Parts of the old Concord stages and Conestoga wagons, rarest of all early vehicles, have been boiled in oil for several hours in great metal vats containing 150 gallons of pure linseed oil. This alone was a strenuous task for some of the ponderous wagon wheels weighed 500 pounds each.

Other moments of California's gold rush are being similarly treated and many of these are being set up in exhibition cases in the fort rooms where General Sutter once stored brandy and wine.

To Elect Officers For P. H. C. July 2

Reports Also To Be Given Of Grand Circle Convention Just Concluded

While many of the members and representatives from New Castle Circle No. 5 Protected Home Circle were attending the convention of the Grand Circle of Pennsylvania just closed at Harrisburg, the regular sessions of the local circle convened on Wednesday night with President-elect presiding. Only business of importance was transacted at the recent session and owing to the absence of the degree team the class initiation was postponed until July 2 when the election of officers will feature the meeting and reports given from the grand convention held at Harrisburg. It will be of interest to the members to know that the degree staff of 205 again returns home with new laurels added winning first prize in the competitive drills during the recent convention and that our representatives have also been honored by the Grand Circle.

The movement in progress for organizing the junior department in No. 5 will before long be established in the local circle and with past president Roy Erksen as counselor the Junior Circle promises to be one of the big features of the order.

OLDTIME CAFES OF PARIS ARE NOW FAST VANISHING

(International News Service)

PARIS, June 27.—One by one the old cafes which form a long link along the Grand Boulevards are disappearing. Now it is the turn of the well known Cafe Brebant, one of the landmarks of the Boulevard Poissonner which has stood for over a century.

This cafe had its beginning as early as 1805 under the name of the Hotelierie Barras, the owner being the brother of the one-time friend of Napoleon. In 1816 it became the Vacherie Glacier-Restaurant.

In 1857, the famous Brebant took over the restaurant and had amazing success. Brebant knew everybody that was anybody and all of them came to eat at his restaurant. During the Siege of '71 Brebant bought a part of the Paris Zoo and it is said that the restaurateur gave his clients tiger, kangaroo, camel and giraffe under the form of chopped meats and steaks with sauces, but that it was all very good just the same!

Under the Second Empire the Cafe Brebant rivalled the Cafe Anglais, Tortoni and the Maison Doree. Clemenceau was a frequent visitor, as well as Capus and other well known writers of the day.

Later, Brebant sold the cafe and became manager of a restaurant in the Eiffel Tower but this failed and he died in hard straits. His famous house will now become a modern "Cafe-Comptoir" with shiny brass Napoleon's death-bed in the sub-counter, bright lights and vivid colored decorations.

Napoleon's death-bed is the subject of discussion in the Paris courts. It was bequeathed by the Little Emperor to General Montholonard, is referred to in the General's "Memoirs de Saint-Helene." At present it is in the hands of an antique dealer to whom the bed was confided by Mme. de la Perouse, the last descendant of the general, the object being to sell it.

The general's descendant is trying to recover the relic by legal means. The antiquary who is in possession of papers proving the authenticity of the bed, wishes to keep it. The court will decide the matter.

BEGGAR GIVES CHECK AS BAI.—Charged with begging at Ryde, Isle of Wight, recently, Thomas Terry, 28, promptly produced a check book and drew a check for $250 to cover his bail. He admitted paying $150 for an automobile and negotiating for the purchase of a $2,500 home. He was sentenced to three months imprisonment.

SEVENTH WARD NEWS

Makes Second Visit Here In Fifty-Six Years: Sees Many Of His Boyhood Friends

For the second time in 56 years, Eli Evans, of Windsor, Colorado, a former resident of Lawrence county, has returned to the scene of his younger days. Mr. Evans, who is 65 years of age, is visiting at the home of relatives. Mr. Evans is enjoying every minute of the visit.

Magnificent changes have taken place in this city in the past 60 years, according to Evans. Except for the rivers, which flow through the city the same as always, New Castle would not be recognizable with the New Castle of the 70's. The city was then sparsely settled. Every resident had a plot of farm land, even the he lived in the center of the town. From the Shenango river, a person could look east and see the Nesheimock very plainly. But today, the high and closely built buildings prevent that.

Eli Evans was born in Beaver Falls but lived most of the years until he was 28 years old, in Edinburg. He visited several days ago and found no great changes there. He thinks it a fine village and speaks of a number of older inhabitants he knew there. "I saw Dave Needler in Edinburg. We knew each other when boys. He and my brothers went to the Civil War together."

Evans' last visit to New Castle was 23 years ago. He was here only for a few days then and this is his first visit of any length to his boyhood haunts. Many great changes have also taken place in New Castle in the past 23 years, according to the former resident. Suburbs have become alive with inhabitants, improved roads can be found in every direction, streets are paved, splendid new buildings have been erected, new factories have started and the city is much larger.

Before Mr. Evans left Windsor, Colorado, for New Castle, a friend of his, William Peterson, a former resident of New Castle, asked him to take a look at Niles town, a name which years ago designated a northern part of New Castle. When Evans returns to Colorado he will have a surprising description of Niles town, for Peterson. It was changed as has everything else, Peterson is, by the way, the only Civil War veteran in Windsor.

Intensely interesting is Mr. Evans' tale of his trip from New Castle to Indianapolis, in 1874, in a covered wagon. He and his family in the wagon, made an average of about 40 miles a day on the road. The roads were really no better than paths and the country was very thinly settled in those days. From Indianapolis, the Evans family went to Windsor by rail.

He remembers Thos. Phillips, Bill Shaner, of Ellwood and Mrs. Leonard Coates. He spoke of O. H. P. Green, who was captain of one of the canal boats, and any number of other well known personages of 74. He says that the Cathedral is a magnificent building, and Oak Park cemetery is undoubtedly the finest cemetery he has ever seen.

BERKELEY, Cal., June 27.—He dons his diver's helmet and lead shoes, by the demolition of the old fortifications. They say they like Paris very much and that it is in fact the one city in the world for which they would stop their constant wandering.

At night their campfires sometimes light up the sky and on festive evenings, they bring out their tambourines and sing and dance about the bazaar. Some of the older women squat in corners telling fortunes while the younger ones beg for pennies. One wonders if some of them will leave their hearts behind in the gay capital.

France Revokes Law Made By Louis XV

(International News Service) PARIS, June 27.—A special meeting of the government officials was called at the Ministry of Public Instruction to change an old decree made by a French king many, many years ago. It had the force of a law, although it had often been broken by different curators of the National Library.

This decree, signed two hundred years ago by Louis XV, made it impossible for the Curator to leave Paris even for a day, during his tenure of office.

SEVEN-YEAR-OLD GIRL IS ADEPT AT STAGE MAGIC

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Ill., June 27.—At an age when most little girls are interested in rabbits—if at all—only as pets, inhabitants of picture books and producers of gaily colored Easter eggs, Betty Jane Kolar, 7, of Glen Ellyn, gravely extracts bunnies from silk hats and performs other feats of magic equal to those of her elders.

Betty Jane's favorite picture book is a deck of cards. And her skill at reading the pack is nothing short of marvelous. As for Easter eggs, they are useful to her only as articles which can be made to disappear before one's very eyes, and pop up again in the most unexpected places.

When Betty Jane, with all the naivete of innocent childhood, extends a pack of cards toward you, beware!

"Take a card," she will say. You do, and note that it is the four of spades. You return the card to the pack, and Betty shuffles. Then she makes a few mysterious passes over the cards, holds them behind her back, and selects one. The hands it to you. Right! It is the four of spades.

It all began when Betty Jane, in her first year, swallowed the key to a set of handcuffs owned by her father. The elder Kolar, who for professional reasons uses no first name, is a magician, and his father was a magician before him. Betty Jane's mother did a mind reading act in vaudeville for years, so the child's skill in the black arts might be said to come natural.

"She didn't have dolls to play with when she was a kid," her father explained. "She took such an interest in magic that I got her some billiard balls, coins and a lot of apparatus, and thought I'd see what she could do."

When she was five years old she did a complete act. "I'd just as soon have her be a magician as anything else, but I want her to be a good one—not a ham."

Because they were not getting satisfactory prices for doorknobs, dog leashes and other household articles, they refused to sell, and this has caused a shortage of the "fur" in Chinese cities.

BUY AT OUR MARKET PRICES ARE RIGHT

To sell "better meat" at prices that are right is something that we strictly adhere to at all times of the year. We do not wish to give anyone the impression that we undersell all other markets in the city. Cut-throat competition and bitter price wars ultimately lead to the handling of inferior goods and such methods of operation, in our estimation, are both unethical and detrimental to business as a whole.

We live up to our policy of handling only "better meat" and selling this choice meat at prices that are right. To the majority of our customers price is only secondary—our patrons are interested in "better meat" such as we offer and, with that in view, they continue to frequent our market. The continued patronage of a satisfied group of customers speaks for itself—consult one of our patrons or come and see for yourself.

Scout Camp Scribe Pens Thursday's Spot News

Thursday's program at Camp John M. Phillips began with the camp good turn period. These details were under the leadership of Herb Christman, Tom Rambo, Mac Leslie, Hancher and Earl Timblin.

The daily inspection was a tie between the Crockett and Thompson stockades. The Crockett stockade is under the leadership of Tom Rambo, while Herb Christman supervises the Thompson.

In the morning instruction and test passed by Tom Harris. This test consists of tying nine knots, knowing the scout oath, law and motto and sign, origination and meaning of the scout badge and history of the United States flag.

Bill Offutt passed the merit badge on pathfinding. Wayseekers' scalps were awarded to the following boys: Bob Lee, John Thompson, Charles McCurdy, Harry McCurdy and Dick Hamilton. Second cub scalps were given to Bill Boston, Merle Goffen, Tom Harris, Jack Mitchell, Bill McGilneay, Harry Pearce, Bob Penman, Dave Taylor, Harry Thacker, Bob Wallace, Gerald Wright and Bud Zeigler.

Lee, Thompson Best.

Boys receiving the highest honor points were Bob Lee and John Thompson with 215 points each and Russell Gustafson with 215 points.

Due to the coolness of the morning few boys attended the morning dip but the camp as a whole had a very enjoyable swim in the afternoon.

Boys who are non-swimmers are

Lost Is Found.
A peculiar incident took place in camp yesterday. Bill Swick who attended camp last year happened to lose a scout book. But yesterday morning to his astonishment one was handed to him with his name in it and upon inquiring where the person got it he was told that it had been found in one of the huts. The only sorrowful point about the incident was that in the meantime Bill had bought another manual, and you know how these Scotchmen are. This incident shows the trustworthiness of a scout as the handbook had not been molested during the whole year that it was in the hut.

A color ceremony was held in a most serious and dignified manner with Bob Moore, Bob Lee and Lawrence Bennett acting as color bearers. Colors were sounded by Camp Bugler Woodworth.

A muckball game was then staged between the Carson and Crockett stockades. The Carsons won by a score of 15-3. Tennis, volleyball and baseball were among the other games played.

The schedule was changed by playing night games instead of having a campfire program. Among the most popular games played was "capture the flag" with the older scouts participating. "Will-o-the-wisp" was the popular game among the younger boys.

Bible Conference To Close Sunday

Rev. G. M. Landis Of The First Baptist Church Will Speak To Sunday Audience

REV. G. M. LANDIS

The largest audience that has yet attended the western Pennsylvania Bible conference, last night packed to capacity the spacious auditorium of the First Presbyterian church of Slippery Rock. Dr. Lee W. Ames of the extension department of the Moody Bible institute delivered his initial message to the conference and thoroughly captivated the large audience with his clear, masterful and eloquent unfolding of the Scriptures. "Shall We Know Each Other in Heaven?" was Dr. Ames' theme. Manifesting a profound knowledge of the Scriptures, he marshalled in rapid succession unassailable facts proving that the saved will recognize each other in heaven. He closed with an impassioned appeal for any unsaved present to accept Jesus Christ—the only Way to heaven. The board of directors of the conference are greatly encouraged with the enthusiastic response to Dr. Ames' ministry. Their only anxiety is that the large conference auditorium will be unable to house those who are flocking to the conference.

At the morning session, Rev. S. C. Elder of the Middlesex Presbyterian church gave a very inspiring message on "A Vision That Changed the Map of Europe." At 2:30 p. m. Rev. S. L. Cobb of the Harmony Baptist church unfolded the Scriptural teaching concerning hell, showing that it is neither an absurdity nor a nonentity, but a solemn reality. Rev. Cobb displayed a remarkable grasp of the Scriptures. A splendid message was then given by Rev. Charles C. Mohney of Oil City, who spoke on the interesting subject, "The Ending of the Ages, or Is the World Growing Better or Worse?" Rev. Mohney used an original chart which greatly illuminated his subject and held the keen attention of his audience for nearly an hour.

This evening Dr. Ames will speak at 7:30 on "The Mistakes of Moses." The program for Saturday will be as follows: 10 a. m., "Solving the Problem of Sin" by Rev. Fred C. Patterson; 2:30 p. m., "A Marvelous Mirror," by Rev. George M. Landis; 3:30 p. m., "The Underworld and the Place of the Dead," by Charles C. Mohney.

Closing Program.
Sunday will be the closing day of the conference. At 2:30 in the afternoon George M. Landis of New Castle will give an exposition of the second chapter of Ephesians under the caption, "Grave—Grace—Glory." At 3:30 Dr. Ames will give his concluding message on "The Advent of the Son of God—Just as the Clock Struck." Rev. Ben E. Williams of Ellwood City, president of the conference for the past year, will give the final message on the subject "Contending for the Faith Once Delivered." All sessions are on eastern standard time.

DEBT PAYING AT CENTENNIAL.
To commemorate the 100th anniversary of the great Latin-American liberator, Simon Bolivar, Venezuela, will pay off the entire external debt of the nation during the coming year. At the end of 1929 Venezuela's debt totaled approximately $4,700,000.

The Way Of The Cross

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

"Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God."—Matthew 16:16.

By Dr. ALVIN E. BELL
The shadow of the cross falls stark and bleak upon the whole of Christ's last year of ministry, which has been our study during the three months we review in the lesson.

The golden text of our lesson strikes the keynote of all of Matthew's gospel that has come before us for study this quarter, viz., "Then said Jesus unto his disciples, If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross and follow me." There is no more exemption from cross bearing for the disciple than for his Lord, otherwise the servant is greater than the Master.

We Must Crucify Pride and Hate.
One of the first things we must be willing to crucify is pride. Christ made humanity fundamentally necessary to his kingdom. "Blessed are the poor in spirit; for theirs is the kingdom of heaven." He held before his disciples the example of a little child: "Except ye be converted and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven." This was the answer to their question regarding greatness in the kingdom. Another vice which must be crucified, if we would comply with the requirements of Christian discipleship is hate. "Lest how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? till seven times?" Jesus reply to Peter pointed out that appreciation of divine forgiveness of our greater trespasses which forbids our keeping count, but cultivates a positive spirit of love in whose atmosphere hate cannot live.

That Christian discipleship requires the crucifixion of selfishness is the teaching of lessons four and five of this quarter. The rich young ruler was unwilling to pay this price of discipleship and "went away sorrowful, for he had great possessions" which he refused to use as Christ demanded, but preferred to hold for his own selfish use.

The proper spirit of stewardship is represented in the unknown disciple of Lesson 6 who owned the colt on which Christ rode into Jerusalem and to whom it was sufficient to say "The Lord hath need of him."

The Example of the Cross
How we may crucify the things that hinder us in our discipleship is shown us in Lessons 10 to 12 in our Lord's example in Gethsemane, in his submission to the cross as he prayed, "Nevertheless not as I will, but as thou wilt" and then upon the cross itself until he could shout in triumph, "It is finished" and, finally, at his ascension commit to us the furtherance of his kingdom to the ends of the earth, promising us his presence and his power.

Social Workers To Meet In California

(International News Service)
BERKELEY, Cal., June 27.—For the second time, an institute of social workers will be held in connection with the summer session at the University of California this year.

From July 30 to July 12, a distinguished group of speakers will discuss social work in all parts of the country. First on the program will be J. Prentice Murphy, general secretary of the children's bureau of Philadelphia. Another who will lecture is Dr. Frederick H. Allen, director of the Philadelphia child guidance clinic. He is engaged at present in making a mental hygiene survey of California.

Following revelation that Omagh, Ireland, had built 40 municipal houses far from any water supply, the council has decided to employ a water diver to ascertain if any is available.

CREDITS U. S. WITH RETURN OF GOOD MANNERS

(International News Service)
PARIS, June 27.—Just as the Americans were responsible for a great many of the casual manners that came into fashion after the war, so they are responsible for the good manners that are coming back. Such is the opinion of Cecil Beaton writing in the Paris edition of the Daily Mail.

He reports with pleasure that fashionable young women and gentlemen are now becoming quite polite to each other after a long period of very lax manners. Now, when a lady drops her gloves she does not have to pick them up herself and while doing so receive a playful kick from her beau.

Invitations too, are generally answered even if it is "to regret" and there the many less unexpectedly empty places at the table.

Butle-hustle with short skirts and shorter hair, and of course the War, did away almost entirely with polite manners. People thought they had not the time to be polite they thought they were being very frank, they said what they thought they meant and this generally meant being rude and ruthless.

"In America," continues the writer, "women's supremacy has been so utterly complete that from having been glutted with attentions and bunches of flowers, and having been so ruthless in return, women after a time ceased to be regarded as feminine—they were so dominating and commanding that they were considered as field marshals and leaders instead."

"But now women, either in self-defence or for dog-in-the-manger reasons, have decided to become feminine and polite again—they cannot eat their cake and have it—and they like getting in the car first."

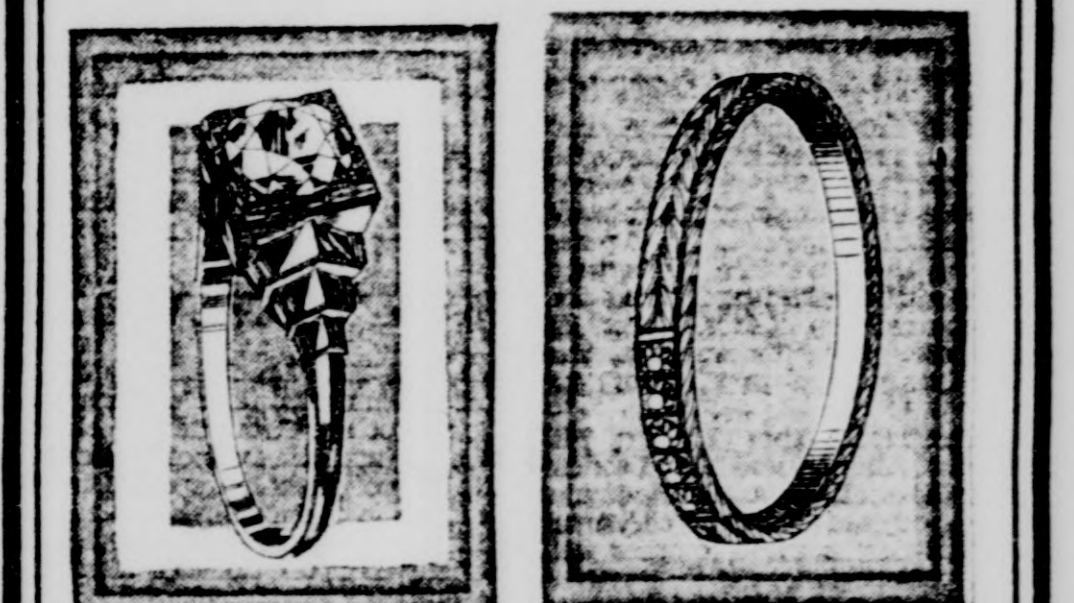

"Cocktails" have given place to sherry, flowiness and elegance and airs and graces are now in vogue and inelegant manners do not fit in with the prevailing tendency."

All this, however, does not necessarily mean that one must never be a bit rough and someone has said that "A gentleman is a person who is never rude unintentionally."

Discuss Provisions For Use Of City Sewer By Union Township

C. H. Milholland, engineer, and Supervisors McCreary and Perkins of Union township today appeared before city council and voiced objections to an ordinance prepared by Solicitor Robert White which prescribes the conditions under which the township can connect its proposed system with the city of New Castle sewage system.

The ordinance, which was introduced several meetings ago and sent to committee, was studied, after which Milholland, as spokesman for the township supervisors, presented objections. It is probable that further meetings will be held. Solicitor White in discussing the situation said "annexation is the only solution".

The township believes that it should not be compelled to make a survey on account of the expense, but the city has taken the position that a survey at least of the districts where the sewers are to be laid and allowed connection with the city system should be made, so that it will coincide with the city's plans laid out by Fuller & McClintock.

Under the ordinance if the city engineer does not approve the actual construction no connections will be allowed. Solicitor White said the clause in the ordinance is no different than that written in all contracts and said the city could not arbitrarily refuse to permit the connection if plans and specifications had been followed.

Section 6 calls for a charge of $1.50 a foot front and the township supervisors believe the price too high. Engineer Milholland said that when the system is built the property owners will be charged $1.50 a foot front and it would be a double charge. The city took the attitude that other persons outside the city who connected with the city system had to pay it.

The township representatives also objected to registration of lots, as each property owner who wants a connection will have to receive a permit from the city engineer. Councilman Treser, an engineer, said this was vital as the city then would know exactly from maps where the connections were. The township said would be too expensive.

Asked how much it would cost to conduct a survey of the district, Washington street south to Oakland, to have sewage, the supervisors said they believe such a survey would cost $10,000. Treser told them he would insist on a survey of the districts. He took the position that this would be a vital point in the proposed project.

Council admitted that if any improvement is made to the city system and the Union township sewers do not benefit directly therefrom, it would not be fair to ask them to help pay for that individual improvement.

The township also said they would not care to see connections disconnected if the township should owe the city money. Solicitor White said that in such event the city would not disconnect, but sue the township.

It was intimated that Union township is not so eager for a sewer system on account of the heavy cost, but said the state board of health is forcing their hand.

The city was quite plain in informing the township supervisors that the city would not allow connections unless the township accepted the conditions.

The conference adjourned at noon and it is probable another conference will be held soon. In the meantime the ordinance, if passed, would allow the connections remains in committee.

Cop Quits Wife Who Smoked In Bed

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 27.—Robert Kosmal, a city policeman, fears neither burglar, bandit nor beast. But a cigarette smoking wife, he claims, caused him to leave home.

Kosmal is seeking a divorce from his wife, Vivian, 33.

He told the court that after he had gone to bed, his wife demanded that he get up and get her a package of cigarettes.

When he refused, she hit him over the head with a telephone receiver, he said.

LOVERS OF DOGS TO START ACTION IN WASHINGTON

(International News Service) BOSTON, Mass., June 27.—Court action is expected following the refusal of the Public Health Service of Washington to give representatives of the Anti-Vivisection Societies records of the number of dogs experimented upon in the District of Columbia and the nature of the experiments.

Such is the opinion of John Sturgis Codman, vice-president of the New England Anti-Vivisection Society. "We maintain," declared Codman, "that the public instructions of the United States are for all the citizens of the country and not for a favored few and their records should be available to our committee at any time. Steps will be taken, we understand, to have this question of right to access to such information settled in the courts."

"Much feeling has been aroused," Codman continued, among those who object to the use of dogs for experimentation in the various laboratories of the country and for a number of years the International Conference for the Investigation of Vivisection, composed of some 125 societies, has been urging a bill for the exemption of dogs from vivisection in the District of Columbia.

Three hearings have been held on a bill introduced by F. N. Zihlman of Maryland and referred to the Committee of the District of Columbia of which he is chairman. Senator Thomas D. Schall of Minnesota, the blind man who with his dog is well-known feature of the Senate, has introduced a similar bill in the Senate.

Loses $21 As Result Of Old Ambition

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, June 27.—John Hooper, a negro, cherished one ambition.

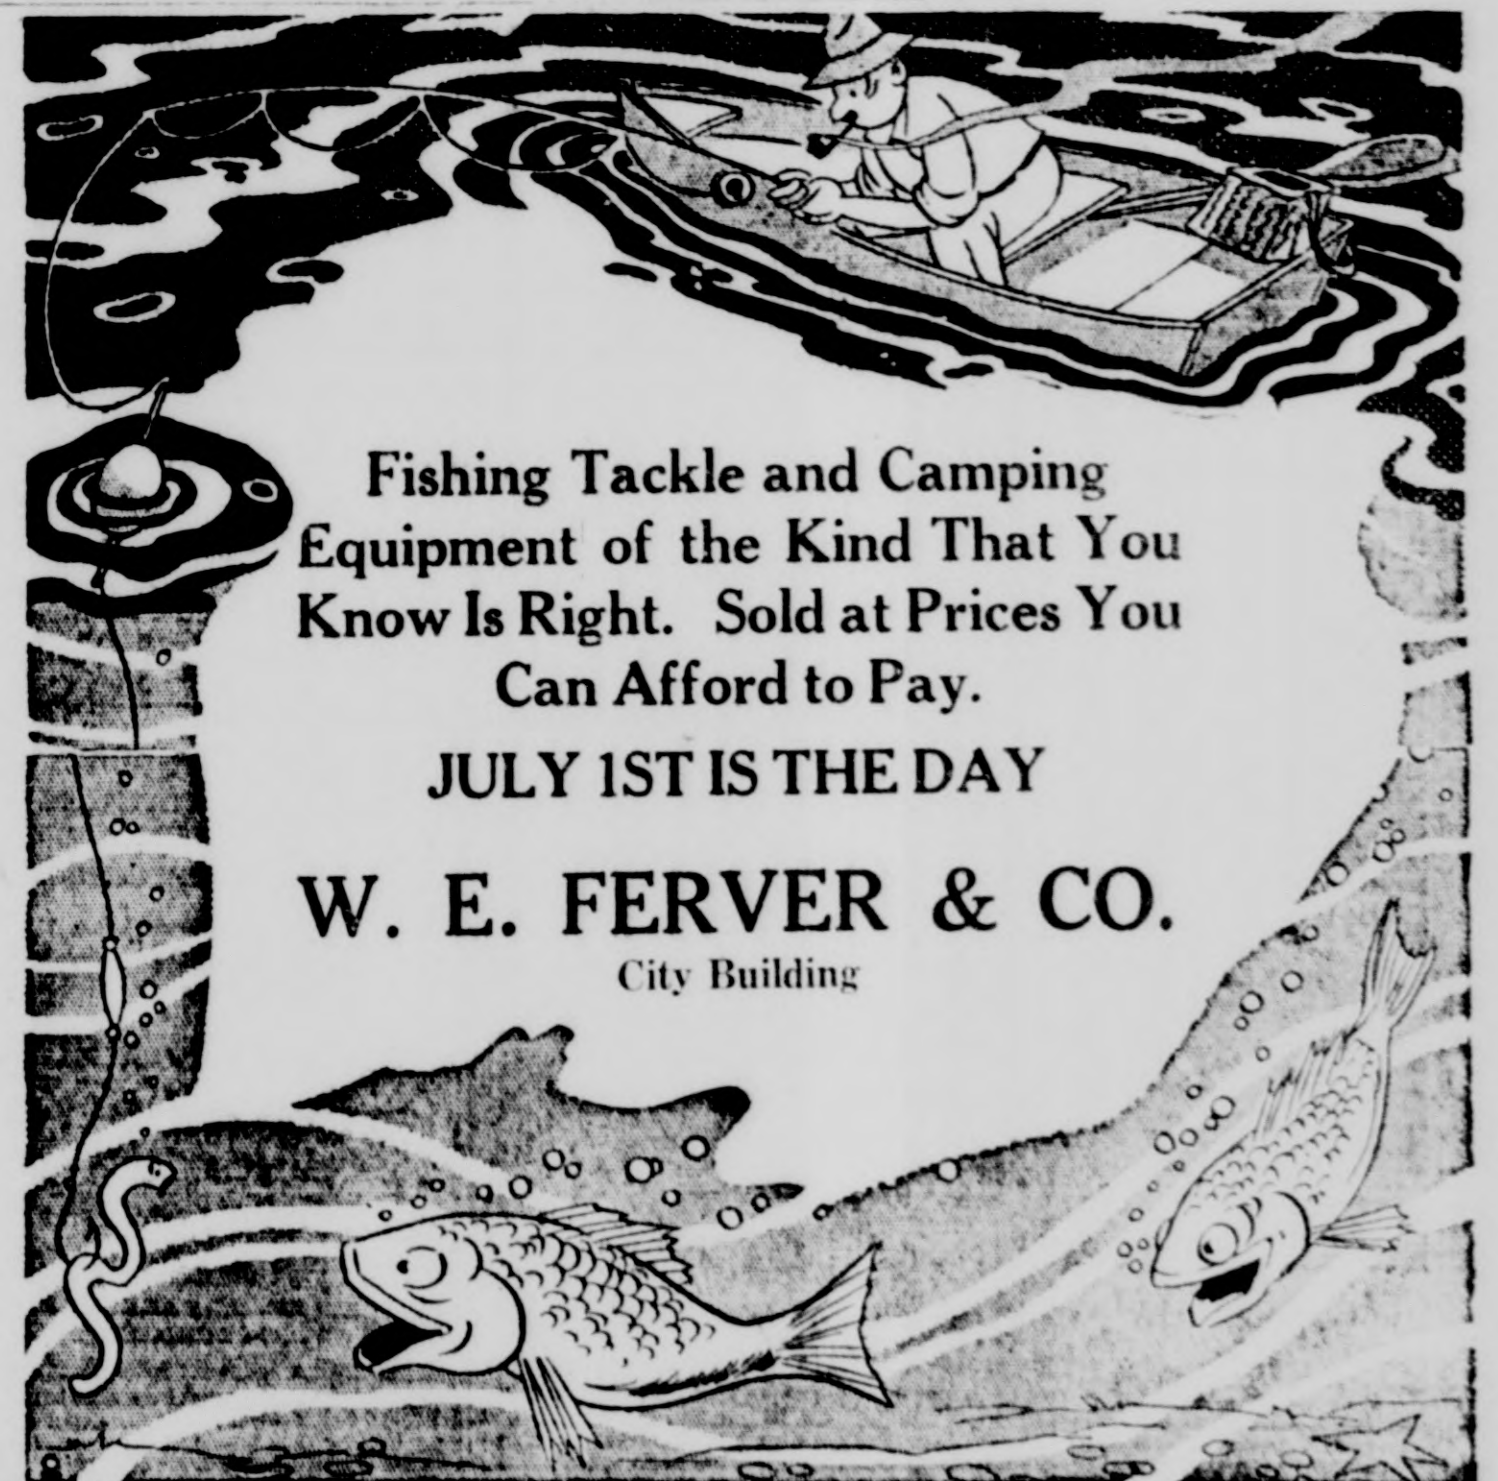

He wanted to be a butler. He carried in his inner most thoughts a vivid picture of John Hooper attired in a uniform with gold braid. So when Luke Wylie, 38, also a negro, offered to get Hooper a job if he would pay $21 for a uniform, Hooper shelved over the money eagerly, he told Magistrate Leo Rothenberg.

That was the last he saw of Wylie or the money, Hooper said. He added, mournfully, that the uniform "with the gold braid," had never materialized.

Magistrate Rothenberg held Wylie for further investigation.

Hoover Tells Why He Vetoed Rankin Bill For Veterans' Pensions

WASHINGTON, June 27.—President Hoover on Thursday vetoed the Rankin Veterans' relief bill which both houses of Congress passed by overwhelming majorities.

In a message which expressed vigorously his disapproval of the measure, the President listed numerous objections, chief of which was the so-called "presumptive clause" whereby a veteran's disability twelve years after the war ended would be "presumed" to have had its origin in military service.

"This presents," Mr. Hoover said, "a wholly false and fictitious basis for legislation in veterans' aid."

"The spectacle of the government practicing subterfuge in order to say what did not happen in the war did happen in the war impairs the interest of government, reduces respect for government, and undermines the morale of all the people."

Next in his objections Mr. Hoover cited the cost of the measure. He estimated it would cost the treasury $10,000,000 the first year, and mounting to an ultimate annual cost of $235,000,000.

The President's message was addressed to the House and said, in part:

"I am returning herewith House Bill 10381 without approval."

"One of the most repugnant tasks which can fall to this office is to disapprove of measures intended to benefit our sick or disabled men who have served our country in war. Perhaps as much as any other person, I have full realization of the task, the hardships, and the dangers to which the nation ordered its sons. In sentiment and in sympathy I should desire no greater satisfaction than to support just measures which are proposed for their benefit. But I want a square deal between veterans—not unjust discriminations between special groups and I do not want wasteful or unnecessary expenditures.

"The country already generously provides for the 280,000 men whose health or earning power is shown to have been impaired by their service in the war and for 91,000 dependents of the men who suffered or died."

"This measure except for a small part adds nothing to aid of veterans wounded or disabled in the war. It is a radical departure from our full commitment to provide compensation to men for war disability into the field of pension to men who have incurred disabilities as the incident of civil life since the war and having no valid relation to their military service. It provides that in respect to veterans who between the years 1925 and 1930 shall have become affiliated with any one of the extensive category of diseases and thus disabled, there is established a 'presumption' that diseases originated from their service and that they should be 'compensated' or pensioned upon the basis of men who suffered as the result of actual military service. This provision would give war disability benefit to from 75,000 to 100,000 men who were not disabled as the result of war."

"I am informed by the director of the veterans bureau that the medical council of the bureau, consisting of most eminent physicians and surgeons, supported by the whole experience of the bureau, agree conclusively that this legal 'presumption' that an affliction from diseases mentioned in the bill between 1925 and 1930 is not a physical possibility and that the presumption constitutes a wholly false and fictitious basis for legislation in veterans' aid."

spect for government, and undermines the moral of all the people.

"The practical effects of this enactment of a fictitious 'presumption' into law are widespread. It creates a long train of injustices and inequalities. The first to place men of this class who have in fact been disabled in civil life since the war on the same basis as the men who wounded in battle and suffered the exposure of the trenches. But a second injustice immediately arises. The veterans bureau estimates that there are somewhere in the neighborhood of 380,000 possible cases of disability incurred in civil life since the war amongst the 4,300,000 living veterans. By this legislation all except somewhere between 75,000 and 100,000 of these men are excluded from this aid by the government except for benefits which they already received by hospitalization. The bonus, and insurance. This bill would, therefore, create a preferred group of one-third among the men who are suffering from disabilities incurred in civil life since the war."

"The further injustice of this bill may become more apparent when it is realized that men who were enrolled in the army who remained but comparatively few days or weeks in service, without ever leaving their home states, will receive aid upon the same basis as those men who passed through the battle of the Argonne. They may come upon the government payroll for life in case of total disability at rates from $80 to $200 per month. Beyond this again, under the provisions of this bill as it affects the existing law, many thousands of men who have in fact incurred their disabilities in civil life may receive larger allowances from the government than the men actually wounded at the front."

"Additional inequalities and injustices arise from certain other provisions."

"This bill departs from the traditional basis upon which we have given support to the veterans of the Civil and Spanish wars."

"There is no provision in this bill against men of independent means claiming benefits from the government for these disabilities arising in civil life. Surely it is of vital importance to the taxpayers, that they shall not be called upon to contribute to such men of independent means."

"I have already protested to congress in other connections against the inclusion of compensation for disability due to vicious habits. This bill contemplates compensation for some misconduct disabilities, the whole conception of which must be repugnant to decent family life."

"The bill in a wasteful and extravagant manner goes far beyond the financial necessities of the situation. This bill as finally passed will cost $110,000,000 the first year; increase to an annual burden of $235,000,000, and continue during the life of these veterans. And this is but a portion of the costs, because the bill as enacted contains indirect liabilities to the government of uncertain but very large possibilities."

"These costs are beyond the capacity of the government at the present time without increased taxation. They are larger than the veterans have themselves proposed."

"Beyond this, and of vital importance, are the potential obligations which are created and must finally be met. For instance, if we attempt to set up a system of relief to veterans suffering from disabilities incurred in civil life by establishing the 'presumptions' of this bill, then we cannot with fairness stop with a preferred group of 75,000 to 100,000 men. We shall have to extend these 'presumptions' step by step over the entire group of 380,000. The additional cost upon the basis of the first 100,000 could readily add another $150,000,000 or $200,000,000 a year."

"It is disagreeable to point out these potentialities lest it be thought that the government begrudges its veterans. I am not presenting these reasons in any such sense but in order that congress and the country may be apprised of the real magnitude of the burden imposed and of the injustices arising from this legislation."

"Even if I were able to overlook these burdens, for monetary considerations are indeed secondary. I cannot overlook the discriminations and injustices which this legislation creates, together with its failure to meet

ITALIAN SWORDS BECOME PLOWS IN NORTH AFRICA

TRIPOLI, June 27.—The example of the United States after the Revolutionary and Civil Wars in making land grants to discharged soldiers, is to be followed by the Italians in their newly conquered African territory of Fezzan, south of here.

Just as the Revolutionary veterans built up the states west of the Alleghenies and the Northern troops developed the states west of the Missouri, so the Italians hope that their veterans will create an agricultural domain out of a previously unproductive region.

It is all a part of the Italian Policy to parallel the French attempts at creating a colonial empire tributary to the southern coast of the Mediterranean, a rivalry which had many an echo in the discussions of the Mediterranean question in connection with the five power naval conference in London.

Marshal Peter Badoglio, Governor of Tripoli and leader together with the Duke of Aflia, of the Italian troops which completed the conquest of Fezzan, is responsible for the project.

"I do not intend," he explained, "that my soldiers shall only carry war into this country. When every soldier who wishes to settle down has become a householder on the lands which he helped to conquer, then the most beautiful operation of the campaign will have been completed."

Marshal Badoglio has already begun the work of habituating his soldiery to the soil. The troops in their rest periods have planted 150,000 trees.

The men who will benefit by the project are in a large part natives, but with a heavy percentage of Italians both from the home peninsula and from Tripoli and Cyrenaica.

Pezzan will open opportunities to them for growing dates, olives, lemons, almonds and figs, together with vineyards and a small assortment of cereals, chiefly barley.

There will be chances for wealth also in trading, because Pezzan is a channel for caravan routes from the south and north. At any rate, there are 220,000 square miles of territory in which the Italians will be able to show what they can do.

Congressman Swick Steps Into Limelight

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Washington Correspondent New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C. June 27.—The plan of Representative J. Howard Swick for providing pensions for veterans of the World War has been accepted by the House in writing the pension bill which it hopes to substitute for the Rankin World War veterans bill which passed the Senate and House but which met with the displeasure of the President.

Following the announcement of the President that he would veto the Rankin bill, the House Republicans met in caucus to decide what their action would be. They decided to write a veterans bill more in keeping with the President's wishes and turned to the idea advanced by Representative J. Howard Swick in a bill presented by him to the House on February 8 of this year.

The Swick bill would provide that all veterans who served ninety days or more in the military or naval service of the United States during the World War, providing they had served part of this time before November 11, 1918 and had been honorably discharged, would be eligible to receive a pension from the government.

The bill also would pension widows and orphans of such veterans.

Looking about for some plan whereby veterans legislation could be enacted that would meet with Presidential approval, the House Republicans decided to modify the Swick bill to be substituted for the Rankin bill. They eliminated Congressman Swick's plan for pensioning widows and orphans and altered the rates carried in the Congressman's bill.

Despite these changes, however, Mr. Swick will have the honor of having written the bill about which the new veterans measure was written, in the event the House is successful in persuading the Senate to accept the new bill.

World championship flower wearing honors were claimed recently by Al (Rosebud) Smith of Little Rock, Ark., who exhibited proof that he had worn 15,000 roses in his lapels over a period of years.

A check here today revealed that he is trailing Price's carnations by more than 4,000. Price started wearing the red blossoms way back in the "hard hat and sideburn" period of 1876, when he was employed as a printer in Oakland.

His mother started the fad by placing a carnation—then known as a "pink"—in his coat lapel as he was leaving for work one morning. It looked so well that he decided to make it a daily practice.

Price has since adopted the habit as a memorial to his mother, who died several years ago.

Chickens May Be Game, If So, It's Business

BRIGHTON, N. Y. June 27.—Chickens aren't always chickens. They may be game cocks, according to a sage ruling of the local zoning and planning board. A resident obtained a permit to put up a chicken coop, but when neighbors complained he was raising game cocks the board ruled him out, claiming game cocks are not good to eat, so must be sold, making it a commercial enterprise to raise them.

The board now is pondering the status of a rabbit farm, which figures in another appeal. It was indicated that in view of the rabbit's multiplication habits, some would have to be sold unless the owner was willing to be crowded off his own ground, thus branding the enterprise as commercial also.

NEW DORMITORY IS FORMALLY DEDICATED

(Special To The News)
ZELIENOPLE, June 27.—One of the largest crowds that has ever been at a Visiting and Donation Day at the Children's Orphan Home and Farm school was present Thursday, at the 76th annual celebration. Cars began to arrive early in the forenoon, and continued to pour in all day. Many enjoyed a picnic dinner on the pretty lawn of the Home and others enjoyed the dinner served by the ladies of the local Lutheran churches. The home is open for inspection at this time, all buildings being open to the public. This is one day in the year that the 140 children of the home look forward to, as relatives and friends visit them at this time that do not see them throughout the year, on some occasions.

At two o'clock the regular program began, although the members of the band played several selections before this time. The welcome address was given by Peter Graff, 111 of Worthington, Pa., who is president of the board of directors, and the principal address of the afternoon was made by Rev. H. D. Newcomer, D. D. of Kittanning, Pa., who gave an excellent address. He spoke of the worthy institution this is, and the many children who are cared for, raised to be fine men and women and given the chance of children in good homes. Many ministers have been turned out from this home, also other professional men.

After the address of the afternoon, a pageant was given by a large number of girls, dressed in red, white and blue. "America, Yesterday and Today," was the name of the pageant, given under the direction of Mrs. William Meeder, one of the teachers in the school. This was especially enjoyed. The band also gave a concert. The band is a new product of the home, being organized the first of the year, after some instruments had been donated by the home by the H. N. White Company, and Mr. Hildebrand of this place who personally donated several. The band has been directed by C. C. Stover, a well known musician of this place, free. He has met with the boys each week and instructed them and they furnish excellent music.

The new boys dormitory recently completed and moved into, was formally dedicated at this time, with short ceremonies. The building was built at a cost of $28,000.00 and moved into about two weeks ago. It is the home of the older boys, and there is ample room for 35 boys, and more when there are more to be placed in this building, the third floor not being furnished although the building is completed throughout. It was made possible by a bequest from C. W. Wattles, who was a member of the board of directors at one time. The home is of brick and complies with all the state requirements. The old building that was used by the older boys, has been taken down. It was built more than 75 years ago, was one of the first buildings at the home. Many new buildings have been built in the past few years, a school building, hospital, home for the superintendent and his wife, and a pavilion where open air meetings can be held, and where the pageant was held this year. This feature was new last year, and was used on Donation day for the first time. A nursery has also been added since last year, this being opened in November, where small children are cared for. There were seven admitted when the nursery was opened, and some admitted since. Heretofore, children under the age of three years could not be cared for, now small babies are cared for, also. A trained nurse is in charge.

PARIS, June 27.—Typhoid fever is the disease of dirty hands, declares Professor Achard, well known French physician. Contagion, he adds, is either direct, coming from the parents, or indirect, referring back to the dirty hands of the baker, the laundress, the milkman or the cook. In the meantime, an interesting case is being decided at Lyon where a large number of typhoid fever cases have broken out because of the water-supply. The courts say that the city water company is responsible for the epidemic, but the company in turn asks if really it can in all justice be held responsible for the purity of the water it furnishes. They add that they have carefully safeguarded their filtration, but that, in the long run, any filter collects impurities. If the court condemns the company they threaten to close their plants and then there will be no water on tap, etc. etc.

NEW YORK, June 27.—A Democratic bookseller has in his show window the following sign leaning up against a plaster bust of Abraham Lincoln:

"Life of Herbert Hoover.
Our price, 39c."

Which, of course, is carrying partisanship a little too far. But it doesn't mean anything. Absolutely nothing. A couple of years ago I bought the "Life of J. P. Morgan" for a dime. It was on a stall in front of a second-hand book shop in Forty-second street. And I'd have missed it if I hadn't pushed aside a couple of volumes of E. P. Roe and Laura Jean Libby that concealed it from view.

HARD TIMES.

Between the market slump, the talkies, prohibition and Summer, poor old Broadway is backed up in a corner yelling for ice water. The movie cathedrals, soft-drink paradises and vigner kennels are hitting their accustomed pace; but over all the rest broods an air of melancholy decay, akin to that of an over-ripe squash. And on top of everything comes word that The Lambs, noted haven of stagefolk on West Forty-fourth street, has saddled itself with a second mortgage of $100,000.

"We had to borrow the money to pay our debts," says Arthur Byron, acting Shepherd of the club. "So buckles jammed to the last notch, you'll find them smiling in the face of Fate.

ABOUT SPEAKEASIES.

There's a notable contribution in the July Scribner's by Struthers Burr, who, in all seriousness, advances the notion that Prohibition repeal will be a bad thing if it eliminates the speakeasy—which he regards as a cultural asset.

"Primarily," he says, "I am speaking of the New York speakeasy, but almost any speakeasy will do. There is hardly a town or village in the United States which has not felt the ameliorating and civilizing influence of this institution, which, coupled with the calm, philosopher attitude of the proprietor and his ally, the bootlegger, has done much to allay the feverish pace of American life."

He describes dining "in a small, quiet room, on good food, with good drinks at your side, both served by a waiter who is really interested in your having a pleasant time," but he warns you against confusing the speakeasy with the night club.

"The whole atmosphere of the real speakeasy," he insists, "is delightful to the civilized American of whom due to the speakeasy and the general

OPENLY ARRIVED AT.
Encountering "Calamity" Burke at a table in a Longacre speakeasy the other evening, I disengaged his attention from a porterhouse steak and a foaming flagon long enough for him to digest a brief rehearsal of Brother Burt's speakeasy dissertation. "Calamity" took an eight-octave inhale from his flagon, wiped his rosebud lips, and with the philosophic deliberation no mere water drinker ever attained, delivered himself thus:

"Yer frien' Bolt's kiddin' de con'gregation. Nix on dat stuff. I've had one slogan since de Volstead Disaster an' I ain't never gone back on it: Open saloons, openly arrived at!"

MALT
IT'S DIFFERENT —different because it's always the same

Many people seem to feel that the brand of malt they use varies from time to time.

Puritan is always the same. Its quality and uniformity are protected by the wonderful "Controlled-Temperature Process" used on every pound of Puritan we produce.

Under this process, every second—minute—every hour of the twenty-four—temperatures are recorded and controlled.

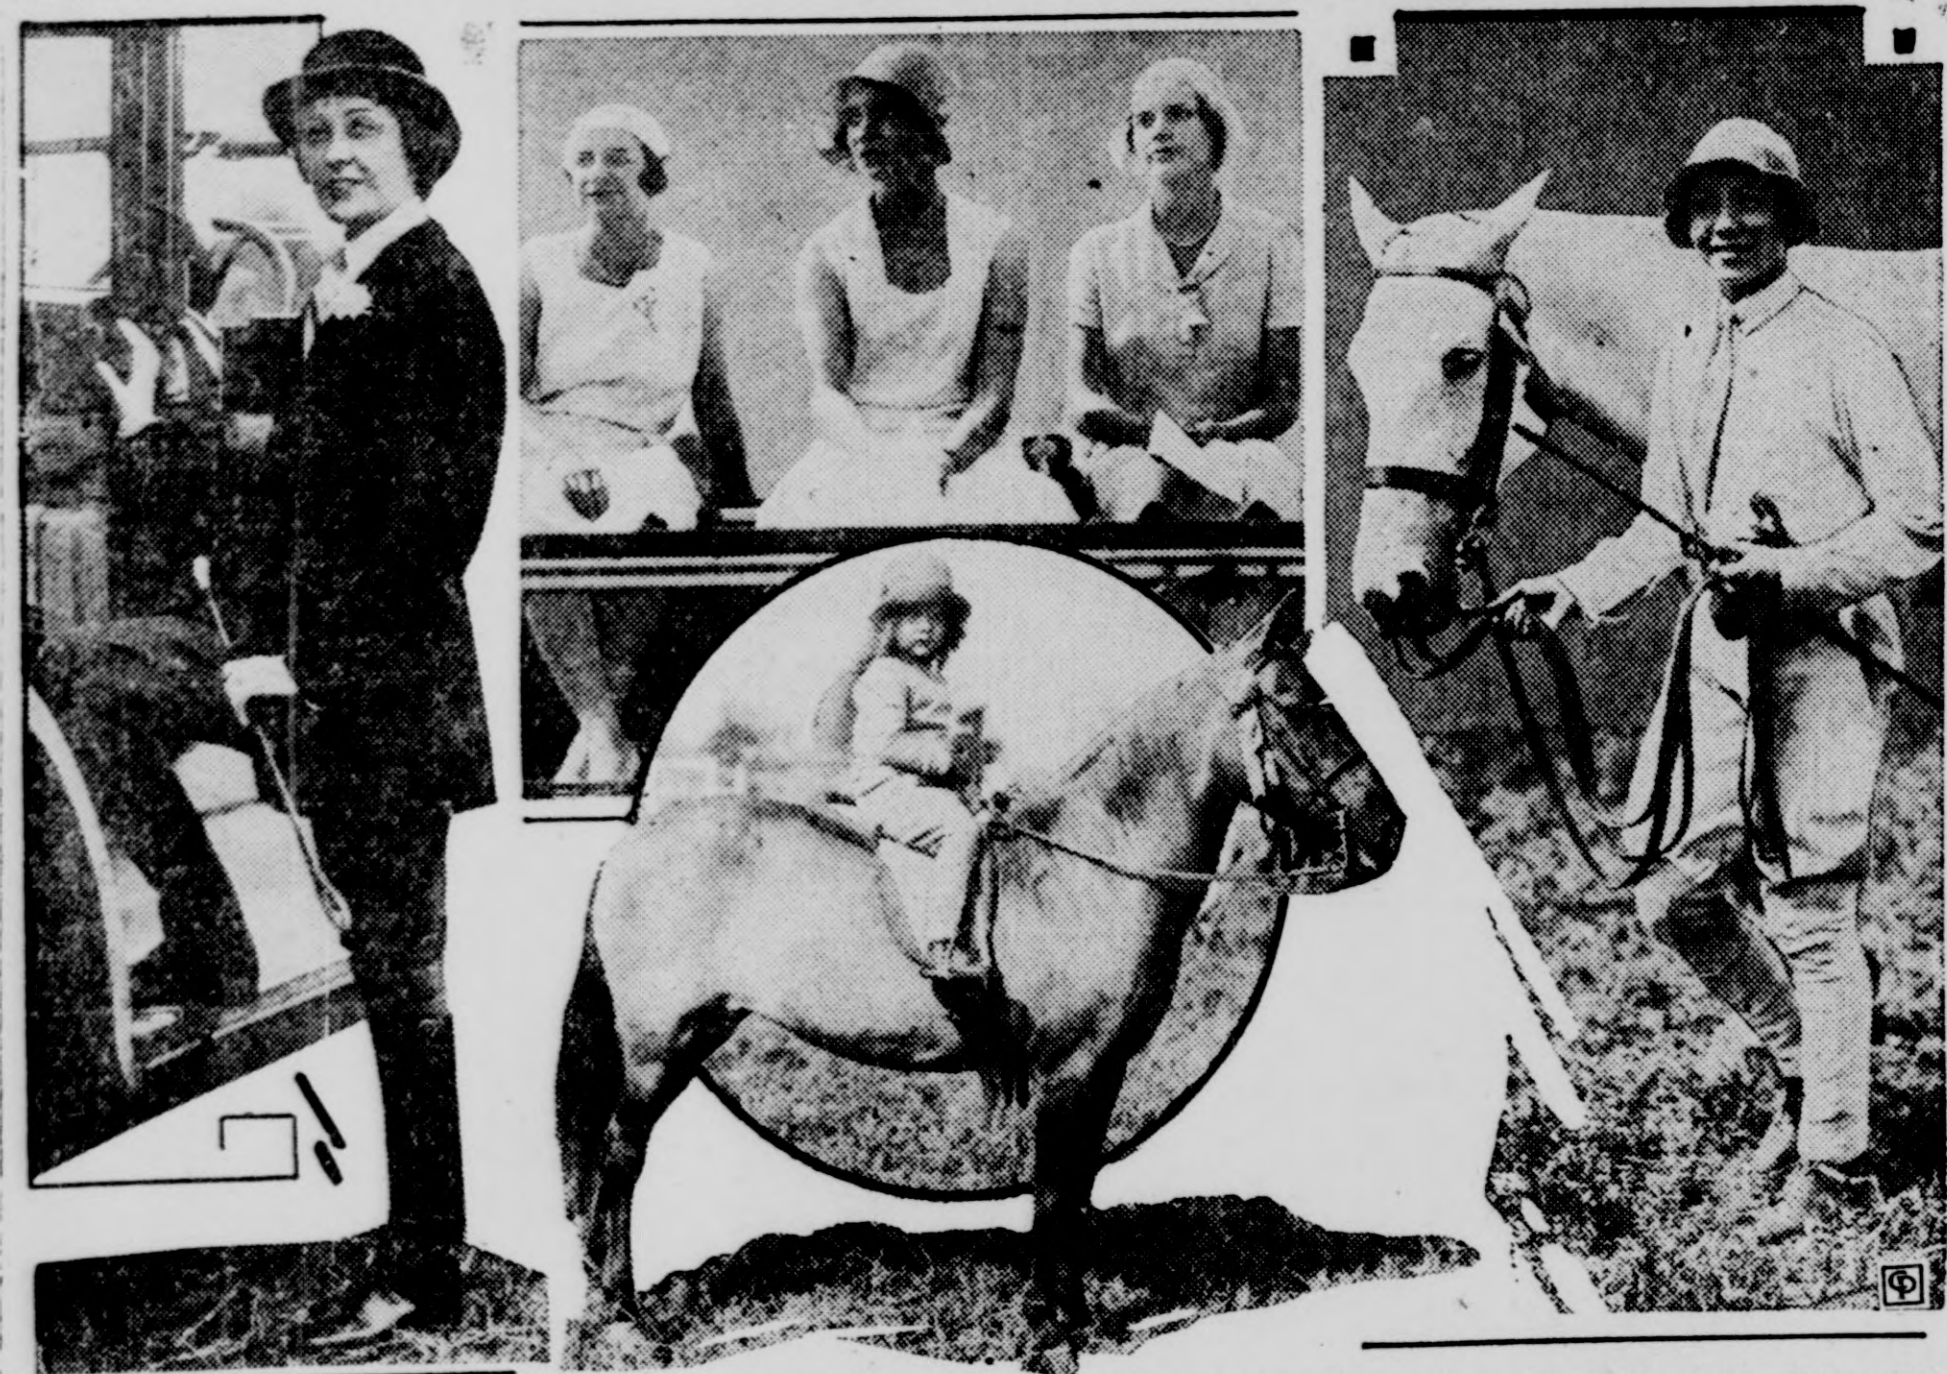

This gives perfect uniformity—in July or December—this year or the year after—in Maine or Mexico.

10% more for your money—the Puritan can contains 10% more malt than most brands offer—and—at no increase in price.

THE LATEST Achievement of Rice Engineers

The Rice is "the result of 25 years of knowing how." It is built by engineers who have always led their field. From the days when the possibilities of electricity as a household servant were just beginning to be realized, Rice engineers have always been—and still are—years ahead in the planning and making of electric refrigerators.

Simplicity: The simpler a mechanism is, the less chance of its getting out of order and the longer its life-time. Naturally, the leaders in electric refrigeration lead in simplification—the utter simplicity of the Rice represents the highest degree of mechanical perfection, and minimum of service. Only four moving parts in each unit.

Compact in design: The entire mechanical unit is complete in one piece and is removable from the cabinet by merely lifting out without disconnecting any movable parts—simplifying service either in the home or at the factory. The entire unit is covered with an attractive hood in modernistic design.

Strength: In addition to being pre-eminently simple, the Rice has most unusual strength. Throughout, there is provided not only sufficient strength of construction, but an extra margin for perfect safety. It means much, you must admit, that when you select a Rice, the unit in which you invest is identical, in principle and quality, with the thousands of units installed by Rice Engineers for the United States Navy, the French Navy, many private yachts, large estates and clubs.

Rice-designed Electric Refrigerators work perfectly in tropical seas. They work when ships are tossed by northern gales. Is it any wonder they work in your kitchen?

Economy: Naturally, as a result of this mechanical perfection, simplicity and strength, Rice leads also in economy. Moderate in initial cost, it saves money from the time it is installed. Cork provides perfect insulation.

As an investment the Rice is the best value for your money. What dividends does a Rice pay on the original investment? It gives the family that owns one:

1. The most modern, sanitary method of keeping foods at the temperature scientifically correct for health—a crisp, dry, preserving cold—between 40 and 50 degrees—and colder if desired. Vegetable Hydrator in each refrigerator.
2. Proven dependability—in every season and every climate. The simplest operation, without delicate mechanism, brine tank, etc., to get out of order. The sturdiest construction and the longest life. The greatest speed and economy in reaching and maintaining the correct box temperature and in freezing within the ice-cube unit.

3. A definite, and over a long period, an incalculable, saving of food—protecting it against deterioration in summer and over-chilling in winter—preserving flavor as well as purity.

Political Mortality Rate Among Present Senators Unusually High This Year

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, June 27.—It is a considerable distinction to be nominated for the Senate this year.

The political mortality rate among "sitting" senators is terrific.

Thus far only two of them, in the ranks of those whose turn it is to stand for re-election next November, have proved themselves strong enough to beat opposition in their own party primaries.

Senators McMaster of South Dakota and Schall of Minnesota faced fights and won them. Now it is up to them to win in the autumn if they can.

Senators McNary of Oregon and Steck of Iowa also have been renominated, but they were unopposed. McNary because he had his state's G. O. P. organization completely under his thumb. Steck because a Hawkeye Democrat's chances are considered so dubious that no one else desired his place on the ticket.

McMaster and Schall were named as progressives—McMaster notably so. Schall began his term conservatively in fact, he defeated Magnus Johnson, the Farmer-Labor ex-senator, and developed insurgency gradually, with occasional lapses, winding up apparently 100 per cent, however.

McMaster's record was consistent. Of the 12 progressives who finally voted against the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill he was one of the five who also had the courage to vote against it in the form in which the Senate originally passed it. If the whole 12 had stood as pat the first time as Blaine, LaFollette, McMaster, Norbeck and Norris did, the bill's ultimate fate might have been different. However, Borah, Brookhart, Frazier, Howell, Nye, Pine and Schall weakened on the initial test of strength and, although they flopped over later, the tariffites had strengthened their lines in the meantime and won—minus deputation, plus flexibility and very much to the satisfaction of the "regulars".

The gallant five's judgment was vindicated anyway, and their grit was demonstrated—especially McMaster's and Norris', with renomination and re-election campaigns right ahead of them and their defiance of the administration bound to be used against them by their opponents.

Senators Deneen of Illinois, Grundy of Pennsylvania and Simmons of North Carolina, as we know, already have been beaten for renomination. Deneen and Grundy on the Democratic ticket.

Senator Heflin of Alabama is difficult to classify, not having had an opportunity to be defeated because his party management refused to recognize him as a Democrat, forcing him to run independently—which he is doing, however, so it cannot exactly be said he is out of the race, either.

As per their succession of announcements weeks ago Senators Baird, Gillett, Gould, Phipps and Sullivan, respectively of New Jersey, Massachusetts, Maine, Colorado and Wyoming, have not been candidates for renominations this year at any stage of the proceedings, nor has Senator Goff, since he looked over the West Virginia situation and his health failed—though it is equal to a diplomatic appointment if he can get one. And Senator Brock is an aspirant only for the remainder of an unfinished Tennessee term lasting until next March's adjournment.

Thus ten senators, at least, and accounted for who will disappear from public life with the end of the 71st Congress, and there are several others who are doubtful—the vicissitudes of both primaries and of election day being taken into consideration.

For instance, it never is judicious to say that such a state as New Mexico is wholly safe for a Democrat, like Senator Bratton; or that Republicans, such as Senators Hastings, Metcalf, Pine and Robinson, can reckon with entire confidence on as changeable a quartet of states as Delaware, Rhode Island, Oklahoma and Kentucky.

Senators Allen of Kansas, Couzens of Michigan, Norris of Nebraska, Robinson of Arkansas and Walsh of Montana can scarcely be spoken of as in serious danger; nevertheless, all of them do have contests on their hands.

The truth is, lead-pipe cinches to succeed these years are difficult to accord this year, except to:

Senators Blease of South Carolina, Borah of Idaho, Capper of Kansas (which happens to have two selections to make next autumn), Glass of Virginia, Keyes of New Hampshire, Harris of Georgia, Harrison of Mississippi, McNary of Oregon, Ransdell of Louisiana and Sheppard of Texas—and even Sheppard has a little opposition, but it is impossible to believe it amounts to much.

At any rate, to be able to mention but a scant half of time-expiring senators as virtually certain of renomination and re-election is something almost unprecedented.

Scion Of Grecian Royalty Leads Simple Country Life

IN HAPPIER DAYS

SYOSSET, N. Y., June 27.—Beautiful Princess Xenia of Greece, who recently divorced her millionaire husband, Billy Leeds, is living a quiet, simple life in this tranquil New York suburb. Neighbors report that a romance with a "poor, hard-working young American" may shortly result in a second marriage venture for the Princess.

Although Leeds, heir to the millions of his father, the tinplate king, is reported to have settled a fortune on his blue-blooded bride, Xenia does all her own shopping and is reported to have retired from the gay social world for all time. Three miles away divorced, they remained the best of friends and would always remain so. Leeds was only 19 years old and the Princess, 18, when their marriage uniting one of the most ancient families in the Old World to a financial power of the new started international society. It followed the marriage of Billy's mother to Prince Christopher of Greece, Xenia's uncle.

In the years that followed, vast sums from the Leeds coffers were reported poured into the vain movement to keep King Constantine on his tottering Grecian throne.

Their divorce resulted when Billy continued his madcap career of frenzied adventure and pleasure all through the decade of their union. Xenia, unlike her handsome and popular husband, preferred studying serious subjects such as international politics and economics to a night after night round of cabarets and night clubs.

Three years ago, when Mme. Tchakowsky, a Polish woman claiming to be Grand Duchess Anastasia, heiress to the Russian crown, came to America, Xenia sheltered her. She spent $100,000 of the Leeds millions providing medical treatment and in attempts to prove the truth of the mysterious woman's assertions.

Two years later Mme. Tchakowsky left the Oyster Bay mansion and Mrs. Leeds declared her story had been found fictitious.

Says Jazz Is Dying Natural Death

PARIS, June 27.—Jazz is dead long live jazz! writes Dominique Sordet in "Candida."

"There is no use trying to evade the truth," says the Frenchman, "jazz has had its day during the past ten years and is dying a natural death. It is exactly the same history as Cubist art. Go into the large shops and you will find every little art object, the most ordinary fabrics and all standard pieces of furniture decorated in the Cubist spirit.

"These victorious conquests of public opinion, these universal triumphs signify the end. Cubist art is dead because today mothers of large families are cutting out their little daughters' dresses from modern stuffs decorated with cubes, triangles and squares.

"Jazz is dying for analogous reasons, because in the little country cafes and taverns and no longer in the chic cabarets of Paris couples are dancing on Sunday afternoons to the strains of the last fox-trots."

DANCING TAUGHT BY SQUARES
Dancing steps are being taught by means of a checkerboard floorboard, recently invented by a dancing master of Berlin, Germany. It fits the average size room. The squares are numbered and a code tells upon which square the pupil's feet should be for each step.

PARIS TROUBLED BY BIG INFUX OF FOREIGN CROOKS

(International News Service)

PARIS, June 27.—Will France be obliged to undertake a grand cleaning-up process in order to rid the country of crime or will she adopt America's manner of keeping the foreign element small?

Recent statistics show that foreigners are furnishing too many criminals for France. Forty-five out of every hundred arrested men come from foreign countries. The industry of making false passports has become one of the liveliest in all France. Arrest twenty foreigners in Paris and one is certain to find twenty revolvers on them. Arrest the same number of Frenchmen and there will not be one among them.

According to Pierre Veber writing in "Candidé," there are five or six foreign police in France and even a service which controls all purchases made by the inhabitants of certain countries. But they are so discreet they refrain from keeping in touch with the French police and keep their "discoveries" as much in the dark as possible.

A writer in "La Liberté" recommends that France attract as many foreign citizens as possible to spend money within the country but to turn a cold shoulder upon those who wish to come for the purpose of making it. Many hotels and restaurants are employing more than the allotted ten per cent of foreign help. One well-known hotel has twenty-two waiters, every one of them is a foreigner.

Fable: Once a wife reached for the dictionary and her husband didn't say: "What is it you wish to know, dear?"

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

A blonde, a reddish blond, has emptied her very soul on the subject of brunettes. She calls them vamps and homewreckers with whom no woman's husband is safe. She says red heads have their faults too, "but when our husbands stray they come back. They may look perplexed, but not discontented."

Can't you just see the husbands? Her descriptive powers are excellent, but I think her judgement is a bit warped.

She read a brunette's letter in this column and she says that with her "red head's temper," it made her "boil."

But some of the reasons for her contempt leaks out in her statement: "My husband left me for a brunette. In fact each time he has left me it has been for a brunette homewrecker—Never a blonde."

"A brunette," she insists, "is entirely without honor and the other woman's husband is her goal. I am speaking of the great majority of brunettes."

"When a blonde marries she leads an unmarried man to the altar, but not so a brunette! Look over the happy men married to blondes, and you will find haggard and discontented—the brunette's husband looks—nine times out of ten."

"We blondes don't know how to cheat."

Well, I don't believe it. You have a deep seated grudge against brunettes, but if you will be fair, go and watch the court crowds and see if there aren't more brunettes complaining about their husbands paying attention to blondes, than there are blondes registering the same complaint.

I do think that blondes are easier to get along with. But when it comes to getting rid of any woman whom you don't want, blonde, brunette or red head, they are pretty much alike. It's much easier to lose men. Trying to get out of an engagement or dodge the altar when the woman's mind is made up, isn't child's play.

But today women make their hair the color they want it, so you can't judge fairly by that. If the men JOHNSTOWN, June 27.—Mrs. Theresa Spendal, 44, died at a local hospital, the result of self-inflicted stab wounds in the abdomen. Despondent over the death of her husband, Mrs. Spendal is said to have procured a butcher knife and inflicted nine deep wounds in the abdomen.

"I have never met a real gentleman in Glasgow," wrote a 24-year-old miss of the Scotch city in an appeal to the mayor of Dunedin, N. Z., for help in securing a husband. The mayor is broadcasting the message to New Zealand gentlemen.

Former Local Boy Develops Radio Beacon

Device Developed By J. L. Preston Has Clock Which Winds Automatically

FIVE OPERATIONS

Is First Automatic Radio Beacon To Be Developed By U. S. Engineers

Development of a new radio beacon, which operates from an almost human "clock" which turns on the motor-generator and lights the filaments of the transmitting tubes as well as sending out the beacon signals has been made by John L. Preston, chief of the radio section of the light-house service, and his co-workers. It is installed at St. John's river light-house at Mayport, Fla.

Mr. Preston is a former local boy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Preston of 1218 East Washington street.

The automatic mechanism, which consists of a device resembling in outward appearance a grandfather clock with a large glass panel, is entirely self-contained and winds itself automatically. It also contains a reserve spring which comes into play in the event that the battery fails. The clock is equipped with a compensated pendulum, the accuracy of which will not vary more than ten seconds a month. The timepiece is adjustable and by means of a set-up and reset device, the speed of the signal-transmission program may be varied by manual movement of the clock's hands.

This clock executes at least five assigned duties, automatically starting and stopping the various units included in the radio beacon transmitting station. It acts as a governor in transmitting and stopping the engine-generator, the motor generator, the transmitter, lighting the filaments and applying voltage to the radio transmitting tubes, and other units in the radio equipment. This is accomplished through associated relays. The contacts are so arranged within the clock as to control the 60-second operative and 120-second inoperative periods of the assigned beacon signal.

Local friends of Mr. Preston will be pleased to hear of his accomplishment, which in all probability will be developed for flying purposes.

Kentuckian Is Making Plans For His Third "Death"

LEXINGTON, Ky., June 27. — Col. Dick Redd, after having "died" twice, is now making preparations for his third burial in case he happens to die before he reaches 100.

Back during the Civil war Col. Redd "died" for the first time. That time it was in Memphis from the scarlet fever, and just as they were ready to throw dirt over his casket, he rose up and asked what it was all about. He went back to the confederate army to serve under Lee until the war ended. Three years ago his second "death" occurred. His horse reared and threw him off with such force that it was thought he was dead. Just as they were ready to put him in the coffin, Redd rose and remarked: "Have I a hole in my sock? I can't be laid away that way."

Chewing Gum Proves Aid To Justice

(International News Service) SAN JOSE, Calif., June 27.—Adelbert Simmons was held on a worthless check charge—and a piece of chewing gum was responsible.
With Police Judge Percy O'Connor's court at a standstill, due to the check and complaint being missing, it was remembered that the papers were last seen atop a huge, immovable filing cabinet.
A search located them in a crevice against the wall. When walls were exhausted how to get the apparently inaccessible object Miss Loreen Hall Caton clerk, came to the rescue with her chewing gum.
The gum was placed on the end of a yardstick, the papers stuck to the gum when contact was made, court continued and Adelbert held for the Superior Court.

Former Foes Now Become Friends

Old-Time Showmanship Methods Keep Broadway Crowds Running

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service
Dramatic Editor
NEW YORK, June 27. — Broadway is returning to the ancient showmanship of Barnum.
In the past few years, the publicity methods of those who push and pull the names of theatrical productions and performers into print have been more or less tinged with a suave, subtle and business-like touch.
But this technique seems to have been tossed aside in favor of blatant and screaming stunts.
Cramped within a few days time Broadway has seen such exhibitions as the following:
A chorus girl dancing on her toes for a mile.
Rin-tin-tin knocking over a make-believe bandit at the box office of the theatre in which the moving picture dog was appearing.

The opening of a beauty parlour with twelve showgirls taking treatment in a window.
Raymond Duncan, lecturer, brother of Isadora Duncan, parading down Broadway in Grecian costume to make salt from waters of Battery.
When Mary Rizzo, the toe-walker did her stuff, the New York census takers could have cleaned up their job in one fell swoop.
Everybody in town was there to look except the traffic cop leading the procession. He was occupied in keeping in tune with the motion picture cameras.
One fat woman puffed all the way from Columbus Circle, the starting point to the finish line across Times Square.

It's things like this that will put the Hollywood Diet fad out of business.
Andre Teller, young French author of "The Magnificent Sin," hates pencil writing and can only write in blue ink.
"Blue ink permits me to keep my emotions cool and balanced," said Teller.
FRIENDSHIP CIRCLE
On Thursday evening the Friendship Circle of the International Institute for Foreign Women on Pennsylvania avenue held a meeting. A picnic was planned for last night but the weather caused a postponement.
The picnic will be held in about two weeks. Games were the pastime of the evening followed by refreshments. This evening at the institute home the Square Circle will meet at 7.00.

Penalty Of Death For Bombing Urged

BATON ROUGE, June 27.—The death penalty is proposed in a bill introduced in the Louisiana Legislature for any person convicted of using an explosive to blow up or attempt to blow up a street car, railroad car, house, building or boat occupied by human beings.

Imprisonment for not less than five years is provided in the bill for a person found guilty of such action when the place attacked is not occupied by human beings.
Another measure introduced would limit the manufacture and sale of explosives to licensed firms.

IN THE LATTER PART OF AUGUST, JONES SET OUT FROM PHILADELPHIA IN THE SLOOP-OF-WAR "PROVIDENCE," CARRYING TWENTY-TWO GUNS AND SEVENTY MEN.

HIS FIRST MEETING WITH THE ENEMY CAME NEAR BRINGING THE CRUISE TO AN ABRUPT AND DISASTROUS END. OFF BERMUDA JONES GAVE CHASE TO A DISTANT SAIL WHICH TURNED OUT TO BE THE BRITISH 40-GUN FRIGATE "SOLWAY."

INSTANTLY THE BIG BRITON TURNED TO ENGAGE THE LITTLE "PROVIDENCE." AFTER A RUNNING FIGHT OF 6 HOURS, JONES MANAGED TO ELUDE HIS ANTAGONIST, AND BROUGHT THE "PROVIDENCE" OUT OF THE ENCOUNTER UNHURT.

I don't know, Alf. Sometimes I question whether the airplane will ever entirely displace the train as a medium of travel.

Top Notch Bout Here Monday

Two Of Best Flyweights Who Can Punch Will Meet In 10-Round Tilt

FOUR LOCAL BOYS IN SIX ROUNDERS

Eyes which yearn for pugilistic class will gaze toward New Castle and Toronto Monday night as four of the best flyweights in the world will box in two bouts, one here and the other at Toronto.

Frenchy Belanger, the greatest flyweight in Canada, perhaps in the world will meet rugged Phil Tobias of Brooklyn here and Willie Davies of Charleroi will tackle Midget Wolgast, world's flyweight king at Toronto.

After comparing the qualities of the four and the two other bouts the fans who follow the trend of fisticuffs would pick New Castle as Belanger and Tobias are punchers. Wolgast and Davies do not carry knockout punches.

There are few flyweights who have met Belanger who have been able to occupy a perpendicular position throughout the fight. Tobias has demonstrated his wallop here, especially in a tilt with Ernie Peters.

Davies and Wolgast may have expert left hands and a lot of tricks but we firmly believe that Mr. Belanger and the Brooklyn boy, Tobias are capable of giving them at least an even argument.

The semitonal here between Bud Ciccone of Greensburg, Pa., formerly of Scranton and Pete Brancato, Cleveland, formerly of Uniontown, will be a slugging affair and someone may pass out. They will weigh 150 pounds or under.

Nick Adamo, Seventh Ward miller will take on Jack Evans of Cleveland in a six round bout at 165 pounds and Joe DiMuccio and Bill Middo, both of this city will clash at 120 pounds in the first six round bout.

Dazzler Vance Proves Puzzle To Cublets As Dodgers Annex Victory 7-1

YANKS INDIANS CRASH HOMERS

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 27.—Humility is almost a divine virtue and the meek and the mild shall be thrice blessed was the sole consolation today of the Chicago Cubs. From their famed murderers' row right on down the entire payroll, the Bruina ate pie from the big, red hands of shuffling Dazzler Vance yesterday and the scintillating Dazzler sent the bruised and very much tamed Cubs to the cooling showers to the melody of 7 to 1.

Hack Wilson, who got three hits, was the only killer of the Cubs who puzzled Dazzler, while the shock men of the Robins climbed on Charlie Root in the second inning and batted him over the mound as they made the runs. Gilbert, DeBerry and Herman each got two hits.

The league leading Athletics had little trouble subduing their old playmate, Sam Gray, and trounced the Browns, 8 to 3. Fox of the A's banged his 19th homer of the season.

Plenty Of Homers
In one of those old fashioned country fair clashes the aspiring Yanks defeated Cleveland 13 to 11. Tony Lazzeri got a homer with the bags bogged, Hodapp, Seers and Averill circled for the Indians and there was all kinds of fun. Babe Ruth only got two measly hits.

Collins, Phillies pitcher, was thinking about something else and dropped the ball while winding up to permit Brickell to score the run that won the opener for Pittsburgh. In the evening event four Philadelphia pitchers were helpless and the Pirates took it, 11 to 5.
Celebrating his return to first after a seige with charley horse, Joe Judge made two hits, batted in a run and scored once as the Washington Senators lowered Detroit, 12 to 4.
Five Cardinal pitchers coughed up 20 safeties, including a homer by Melvin Ott, and the Giants humbled St. Louis 12 to 4.

The Sox of Chicago used four pitchers in an attempt to beat Boston but the Ruddy Sox took their sixth win of the year from the Alabasters, 9 to 7. Miller, Boston keystone, starred with three hits.

Rain washed out Boston at Cincinnati.

Cornell Crew Is Regatta Winner

First Time In Fifteen Years That Cornell Has Finished Ahead Of Field

MUCH REJOICING OVER FINE FEAT

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 27.—Up there in High Valhalla, the mythical hall of departed warriors, sits the old, old man of the river today, his gnarled, little hand of a face twisted in a grimace of unholy glee. "Pop" Courtney has been dead these many years but yesterday his spirit lived again on the bosom of the river he loved so well. It came alive and, with a final benediction, sent Cornell on to one of the most astounding victories the great four-mile varsity race at Poughkeepsie yet has known.

Not in fifteen years had a Cornell varsity ridden on down to the finish with the field in its wake. Many times and oft before 1915 was Cornell the winner in fact, it seemed that winning then was just an old Cornellian custom. But those were Courtney years when the "Old Man" ruled the river and there were few to challenge and none to thwart his reign. But a new school of coaches appeared, a young, vigorous school from the west, and it was just beginning to realize on its vital, youthful impetus when Courtney died. When he passed on, Cornell domination passed with him.

It was not until yesterday that it returned to claim the place in rowing it once held without a dissenting voice and, returning, it came with the unspoken benediction of its patron saint in one ear and the wise counsel of another oldtimer, Jim Wray, ringing in the other.

Music classes will soon be started at Columbia college for children under 3. It should be a howling success from the start.—The Muskegon Chronicle.

Perry Highway Soon Complete To Portersville

Highway To Be Open Soon From Pittsburgh To Zelienople

(Special To The News) ZELIENOPLE, June 27.—Work is being completed on the Perry Highway, on the completion of the road from Middle Lancaster to Portersville, the work all being completed with the exception of about two and a half miles, that will be completed the first of next week if the weather permits.

The work has been rushed on this part of the road, and it should be opened to the public by July 15, or a short time later. The road will connect the piece built about two years ago to Middle Lancaster from a mile above Harmony, making the Perry Highway complete from Pittsburgh to Portersville. Work of pouring the cement on the last two and a half miles lap of the road will be completed in a few days, the grading having been completed some time ago. A large force of men have been at work on the road for the past few weeks, and it has been done in an unusually short time. The grading on this part of the road was not as much as most roads, and it is hoped that it will be opened by July 15.

Traffic is heavy through Zelienople on holidays and Sunday, and will be much heavier when the road to Ellwood City and Portersville is completed, and there will be improved road to New Castle over either of these roads, and connecting all towns west of there. The traffic is much heavier here the past year than formerly.

Twenty Five Bouquets Distributed Among Shut-Ins Of Ellwood City

ELLWOOD CITY, June 27.—Shut-ins of Ellwood City were made glad yesterday afternoon when members of the W. C. T. U. motored to their homes and presented them with a colorful bouquet of garden posies.

Rambler roses grouped with larkspur, cultivated daisies, pansies and fern made up large old fashioned bouquets which were distributed by members of the committee late in the afternoon.

Flowers were brought to the home of Mrs. R. J. McKim of Fourth street, where they were arranged and tied with a white ribbon. A special W. C. T. U. card accompanied each bouquet arranged by Mrs. McKim, Mrs. Edith Barnhardt, Mrs. Harry Brown, Mrs. Thomas Rogers, Mrs. H. H. Reynolds and Mrs. Edward Harbison.

Flower Day has been set aside by this organization for the past number of years, to commemorate the birthday of a little crippled girl living near Chicago, whose mother belonged, and who had the women bring her flowers that she might tie them up and send them out to others more unfortunate than herself.

Mrs. Ted Evans was the charming hostess for the afternoon and was aided in serving cool refreshments by Mrs. David Cartwright, Mrs. Ralph Conner, Mrs. C. P. Cloak and Mrs. W. R. Thompson.

Handsome green crystal vases were awarded Mrs. Charles Adams and Mrs. H. S. Gold for high scores.

Whose Airedale Awaits His Doom?

ELLWOOD CITY, June 27.—Just a shaggy haired airedale with a rope about his neck in a big wagon. But that was enough. "It is Mutt!" Paul Weingartner cried as he rushed to the home of Junior Stevenson to impart the news that their neighborhood favorite, dear old Mutt, was in pound.

Junior did not lose a moment. Last night he rushed to Tom Moorhead's home in Pittsburgh Circle and demanded the whereabouts of Mutt, in no uncertain tones. Upon learning that Mutt was out at the welfare camp he still remained dubious. Paul had seen him—and he knew Mutt.

Maybe he got away and was coming home, all these suggestions Junior proceeded to give out, leaving Moorheads with doubt clouds written all around him.

But the family which owned the dog was not alarmed.

That is, until the following morning when the pound men came and asked her if they owned an airedale. Mrs. Moorhead explained calmly that they did, but he was at the Fresh Air camp. She went out to look at this dog nevertheless and exclaimed, "Yes, that is Mutt."

"No is isn't," back and forth she undecided as quickly as she decided. At last she remembered that Cartwright's dog had badly defeated Mutt in battle many years ago, leaving Mutt with a very badly chewed tongue, and by that tongue she could not claim this dog. It wasn't "Mutt."

This beautiful shaggy airedale is to be kept in the pound for one week with the hope that a home can be found for him, just because the colored men (who were privileged to kill him on sight) liked his eyes.

Unemployment Shown Smaller Than Thought

WASHINGTON, June 27—Unemployment figures issued by the Census Bureau today indicated that 574,647 persons were out of work in April in territory comprising approximately a fourth of the country with an estimated population of 29,264,430. The figures give an unemployment percentage of a trifle less than two per cent. These were the first figures issued by the government as the result of the census. Secretary Lamont said they indicated much less unemployment than was generally estimated. Those able to work and seeking work were listed as unemployed in the report, which included 756 counties and 73 cities. Lamont said since April, when the figures were compiled, there had been an increase in employment because of seasonal occupations. The highest percentage of unemployment reported for any state was the 4.5 per cent in Nevada, although the territory surveyed there was only a portion of the state. The lowest percentage of unemployment was assigned to Arkansas, and amounted to four tenths of one per cent of the total population. Among the large industrial states, Ohio unemployment for its territory surveyed was placed at 3.3 per cent while Pennsylvania's was 2 per cent New York 1.9, Massachusetts 3 and Illinois 1.6. A survey of Illinois cities showed 4.3 per cent of unemployment in a part of Chicago. The city of New York appropriated $9,000 to pay for the program of welcome for Rear Admiral Byrd and his polar explorers. But after the celebration was over it cost $22,000 to remove the debris. It was the overhead that ran up the bill. The Raleigh News and Observer.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Spent a very pleasant afternoon, thank you, mingling in aristocratic society, yesterday, up at Volant. Met up with some very aristocratic cows, and gentleman cows, whose pedigrees were longer than their horns. Very snooty some of them, and there isn't anything snootier in the world than an aristocratic Jersey bull. A Holstein is friendly by comparison, and a Guernsey is reasonable, but a Jersey is too high hat.

A rather spiffy affair altogether, the cattle show up in the boro to the north and as the cattle stood, they represented some rather high priced steaks and chops. Lawrence County has some blue blooded cattle and its a pity more city people didn't go up to look the stock over.

The boss of the show seemed to be a huge Guernsey bull owned by Charley Brennehan. This gentleman looked like a dove colored elephant and customers that bull knew he was good. He could strut standing still and when he walked he took two places. He knew his pedigree and he wanted the homage due him.

This particular animal weighs about 1800 pounds which is some bull and just as a sporting proposition I wondered what might happen if he had gotten loose to investigate a red hat some flaming youth was wearing.

As for the cows in the show, they were the kind faced kind, the ones that give contented milk. All of them bespoke class and the lad who thinks Lawrence County farmers aren't interested in blooded cattle, should have been at the Volant show yesterday.

The ladies of the Methodist church were serving lunch on the cafeteria plan, and while the lunch hour was over when I went up, some cream pie that was draped on the counter looked as though it needed attention. What a pie that was. Blooded cattle gives prize milk and cream and it must have been that kind that went into this cream pie. A slab of pie that measured about nine inches at the wide end, and a cup of coffee that was a cup, not a demitasse.

Noticed one young lady who had a prize calf entered in the show polishing up her entry as though it had to be shined and polished like a new automobile. Some of the cows were in the proper mode, bobbed horns seeming to be the thing.

Over in the barn the Pennsylvania Railroad band lived up the day with music, and sometime after lunch the music appeased the weatherman and the sun came out.

One of the old grads was complaining about the more recent grads of his school yesterday. He went back for commencement this year and found that some of the younger grads were in costume. One class effected prison striped suits and as he was taking to one of the boys thus clad, the lad's wife came up and took him by the arm. "Here's my ball and chain" was his introduction of his wife to the old grad.

Hope the rain maker lays off for a while tonight. The mush ball game at Taggart Field deserves a break, and it also rates your presence. Come up and see old Honus Wagner toss them around again, take a look at the Boy Scout exhibition, and daub in a quarter to the hospital fund.

Hungary will place its army on a milk diet as an aid to dairy farmers. That is an idea for the solution of our wheat surplus. Let the dough-boys eat it.—The St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Morrow's nomination cost him only $44,000. But then he's a financier. —The Omaha World-Herald.
